PREFACE.

This work represents a new and thoroughly revised edition of a Tibetan-German Dictionary, which appeared in a lithographed form between the years 1871 and 1876.

During a residence, which commenced in 1857 and extended over a number of years, on the borders of Tibet and among Tibetan tribes, I and my colleagues gathered the materials for this Dictionary.

We had to take primarily into account the needs of missionaries entering upon new regions, and then of those who might hereafter follow into the same field of enterprize. The chief motive of all our exertions lay always in the desire to facilitate and to hasten the spread of the Christian religion and of Christian civilization, among the millions of Buddhists, who inhabit Central Asia, and who speak and read in Tibetan idioms.

A yet more definite object influenced my own personal linguistic researches, in as much as I had undertaken to make preparations for the translation of the Holy Scriptures into the Tibetan speech. I approached and carried forward this task by way of a careful examination of the full sense and exact range of words in their ordinary and common usage. For it seemed to me that, if Buddhist readers were to be brought into contact with Biblical and Christian ideas, the introduction to so foreign and strange a train of thought, and one making the largest demands upon the character and the imagination, had best be made through the medium of a phraseology and diction as simple, as clear, and as popular as possible. My instrument must be, as in the case of every successful translator of the Bible, so to say, not a technical, but the vulgar tongue.

Thus, in contrast to the business of the European philologist, engaged in the same domain, who quite rightly occupies himself with the analysis and commentary of a literary language, the vocabulary and terminology of which he finds mainly deposited in the speculative writings of the Buddhist philosophers, it became my duty to embrace every opportunity, with which my presence on the spot favoured me, to trace the living powers of words and of expressions through their consecutive historical applications, till I reached their last signification in their modern equivalents, as these are embodied in the provincial dialects of the native tribes of our own time.

These circumstances, it is hoped, will excuse and explain the system of my work.

As an inventory of the whole treasure of the language, as a finished key to its literature, this Dictionary, when judged by the high standard of modern lexicography, may seem inadequate; I have, for instance, been unable to consult, much as I could have wished to have done so, all the original and translated treatises in Tibetan which, down to the present, have appeared in Europe, and the reader of a Tibetan work may thus, here and there, look in vain for the assistance he expects. On the other hand, a consistent attempt is here made for the first time, 1. to give a rational account of the development of the values and meanings of words in this language; 2. to distinguish precisely the various transitions in periods of literature and varieties of dialect; 3. to make sure of each step by the help of accurate and copious illustrations and examples. I have done my utmost to arrive at certainty where, heretofore, much was mere guess-work, and I cherish the hope that, from this point of view, my contribution will be welcomed by the comparative philologist, and will be serviceable to the general cause of learning, as well as a useful volume within that narrower circle, whose requirements I was specially bound not to overlook, of persons whose main purpose is to be taught how to write and speak the modern Tibetan tongue.

There are two chief periods of literary activity to be noticed in studying the origin and growth of Tibetan literature and the landmarks in the history of the language. The first is the Period of Translations which, however, might also be entitled the Classical Period, for the sanctity of the religious message conferred a corresponding reputation and tradition of excellence upon the form, in which it was conveyed. This period begins in the first half of the seventh century, when Thonmi Sambhota, the minister of king Srongtsangampo, was sent to India to learn Sanskrit. His invention of the Tibetan alphabet gave a twofold impulse: for several centuries the wisdom of India and the ingenuity of Tibet laboured in unison and with the greatest industry and enthusiasm at the work of translation. The tribute due to real genius must be awarded to these early pioneers of Tibetan grammar. They had to grapple with the infinite wealth and refinement of Sanskrit, they had to save the independence of their own tongue, while they strove to subject it to the rule of scientific principles, and it is most remarkable, how they managed to produce translations at once literal and faithful to the spirit of the original. The first masters had made for their later disciples a comparatively easy road, for the style and contexts of the writings, with which the translators had to deal, present very uniform features. When once typical patterns had been furnished, it was possible for the literary manufacture to be extended by a sort of mechanical process.

A considerable time elapsed before natives of Tibet began to indulge in compositions of their own. When they did so, the subject matter, chosen by them to operate upon, was either of an historical or a legendary kind. In this Second Period the language shows much resemblance to the modern tongue, approaching most closely the present idiom of Central Tibet. We find a greater freedom in construction, a tendency to use abbreviated forms (thus the mere verbal root is often inflected in the place of a complete infinitive), and a certain number of new grammatical combinations.

The present language of the people has as many dialects, as the country has provinces. Indeed, as in most geographically similar districts, well nigh every separate mountain valley has its own singularities as to modes of utterance and favourite collocations of words. Especially is it interesting to note, in respect to pronunciation, how the old consonants, which would seem to have been generally sounded and spoken twelve centuries ago, when the Tibetan written character came into existence, and which, at any rate, are marked by the primitive system of writing, remain still extant; every one of them can still be disinterred, somewhere or other, from some local peculiarity of language, and thus even the very diversity of modern practice can be made to bear testimony to the standards imposed by what was termed above the Classical Period. (Compare my Essay on the Phonetic System of the Tibetan language in the Monthly Reports of the Royal Academy of Science at Berlin 1867, p. 148 etc.)

I have already adverted to the circumstances which, especially in the case of the student, who has for immediate object to learn how to read and write the Tibetan language, render existing dictionaries almost if not quite useless. They give but scanty information concerning modes of construction, variations and limits of actual application, shades of meaning etc. In my own case, I was forced from the beginning to compile my own German-Tibetan dictionary, and found myself for all practical purposes thrown back upon my own resources. But the cause of truth appears to require a further word or two in regard to the Lexicon by Professor I. J. Schmidt of St. Petersburg, the relation of that work to its predecessors having been left by its author in some obscurity.

The first Tibetan dictionary, intended for European students, was published at Serampore, as long ago as 1826. It contains the collections, amassed in view of a dictionary and grammar, by a Roman Catholic missionary, who was stationed in eastern Tibet or close to the frontier in Bhotan. There was nothing to assist him, except the scanty contributions, given by Georgi, in his Alphabetum Tibetanum. He had to cope with an entirely unworked language. He evidently took the one way possible of making acquaintance with it, sufficient to enable him to understand, to speak, to read and write. Each word or sentence was jotted down, as soon as it was heard, or was committed to writing, at the request of the learner, by some native expert. After a while, the attempt could be made to master a book. In the instance of our missionary, Padma Sambhava's book of legends appears to have been selected, a work which represents rather a low level of literature, yet just on that account, perhaps, as a specimen of popular and current literature, not unsuitable to start from. Then, step by step, as best he could, our missionary had to possess himself of some abstract views, which would serve as a preliminary basis for a grammar. And had it been granted to this first occupant of the field to reduce his materials to an ordered system and to prepare them himself for publication, it is possible, that in Europe the knowledge of the Tibetan language might have reached, some fifty years earlier, the stage at which it has now arrived. The very name of that Roman Catholic missionary, however, has been lost. The papers which he left behind him, unsorted and unsifted, came into the hands of Major Latter, an English officer, and were passed on by him to Mr. Schröter, a missionary in Bengal. English was substituted for the Italian of the manuscript, and the East India Company made a grant which defrayed the cost of the Tibetan types and the further expenses of printing. But there was no Tibetan scholar to correct the proofs. The author himself would doubtless, on reconsideration, have detected and dismissed much erroneous or unnecessary matter. As it was, many additional mistakes crept in during the passage through the press. Thus the work, though it has a richer vocabulary than can be found in the later dictionaries, cannot on any questionable point be accepted as an authority, and has only value for those who are already competent, for themselves, to weigh and decide upon the statements and interpretations it advances. I have not been able to extract from it much that was serviceable to me. Nevertheless, any one who knows by experience what time and toil such a work must have cost, though its design remained unfulfilled and its object unaccomplished, will not easily be able to repress his indignation at the tone, in which this book in the preface to his Grammar (p. VI) is recklessly and absolutely condemned by Professor Schmidt.

High praise, however, is awarded by the Professor to a second work, the Tibetan-English Dictionary by Csoma de Körös, which appeared in 1834. This work deserves all eulogy; but the Professor's manner, which imitates that of a master commending a pupil, is, though on other grounds, as unwarranted and as offensive in this as in the former case. The work of Csoma de Körös is that of an original investigator and the fruit of almost unparalleled determination and patience. The compiler, in order to dedicate himself to the study of Tibetan literature, lived like a monk for years among the inmates of a Tibetan monastery. It is to be regretted that, with the knowledge he certainly must have possessed of the later language and literature, he should have restricted the scope of his labours to the earlier periods of literature, and when in his Grammar conversational phrases are quoted as examples, they are almost without exception in the dialect of the Kangyur, and of little practical value.

This Tibetan-English dictionary by Csoma has been adapted for a German public by Professor I. J. Schmidt of St. Petersburg. The translation from English into German is good; in the general alphabetical arrangement improvements have been introduced, and such as are in conformity with the spirit of the language; moreover, three Mongolian dictionaries have been consulted, and from these a certain number of words have been supplemented. But it cannot be said that even on the work of revision Professor Schmidt has bestowed much pains. For example, Csoma's rough grouping of words under the principal headings is left unaltered, though here especially a reduction to alphabetical order was obviously required. Mistakes and superfluities, very pardonable in the case of a first issue of an original publication, are repeated in this translation, and these cannot be so readily overlooked and condoned, when they are made at second hand, and are sanctioned and subscribed to by one, who has assumed so severe a critical and editorial attitude.

The national dictionaries of Tibet itself, so far as I have met with such, are either little handbooks, meant only to furnish a correct orthography, or they are glossaries of antiquated forms. The absence of an alphabetical order in them makes the business of reference very troublesome. It is by great good luck that one sometimes finds an otherwise unknown word after a prolonged search.

My own dictionary, in the main, pursues the object and accepts the plan of the work, which was published by Mr. Schröter. As I said at the beginning, I have not restricted myself to the Classical Period, but I have endeavoured to deal with the Tibetan language as a whole, though I do not pretend to have performed this task exhaustively. My dictionary derives its matter and its principles, so far as possible, equally from the literature and from the speech of the people. Each word has been made the object of observation in its relation to the context as it occurs in books, and in its value and place among others when it is used in common conversation, and then the attempt has been made to define its range and to fix its meaning.

All the words, cited by Csoma and Schmidt, even such as I myself had never seen or heard, I have embodied in this work, stating, in each case, the source from whence I drew them.

The signification in Sanskrit has been added, whenever this seemed likely to be useful or interesting to the student of Tibetan literature. Of proper names only the most important are given.

The great number of diacritical marks will perhaps prove irksome to the English reader; yet, they were not to be dispensed with, if the pronunciation of Tibetan letters and words was to be represented with any degree of exactness, and the method of Prof. Lepsius seemed the most eligible among all the systems available for my purpose. The student, however, need not be disheartened, as he is not obliged to make himself acquainted with all the minutiae of the system, but need only direct his attention to the peculiarities of that dialect, within the limits of which his inquiries, for the time, are confined. And by-the-by it may be observed, that the multitude of little marks, of manifold description, cannot be startling to the Indian reader, who was ever necessitated to make himself familiar with systems quite as complicated, as e.g. the Urdu alphabet.

One word more of apology. Of publications in general it has been said, that "when human care has done its best, there will be found a certain percentage of error". And the probability is but too great, that this dictionary will exhibit a number of deficiencies and faults, in the English text as well as in the Tibetan transcript. Still, I venture to hope that an indulgent Public will be ready to make every reasonable allowance, in consideration of the peculiar difficulties, which attach to the execution of a work like the present, and which, moreover, were not a little increased, in this instance, by the fact that the compositors of the press were altogether unacquainted with English.

I should be guilty of great ingratitude, if I were not to mention my obligations to two friends, without whose kind and efficient aid it would have been impossible for me, in my present infirm state, to complete this work, which was commenced in the days of health and vigour, viz. to the Rev. T. Reichelt, formerly a Missionary of the Moravian Church in South Africa, and to Mr. F. W. Petersen, a relative of mine.

Further, I desire to record my obligations for various acts of kindness, encouragement, assistance and advice, during the prosecution of my researches and the completion of my work, to A. C. Burnell Esq. M. R. A. S., in India; Dr. E. Schlagintweit in Bavaria, Dr. Thomson and Dr. Aitchison of Kew, Dr. Kurz of Calcutta, and R. Laing Esq. M.A., Fellow of Corpus Christi College, Oxford.

Not the least debt of gratitude is that which I owe to Dr. R. Rost in London, Secretary of the Royal Asiatic Society, to whose exertions, indeed, the execution of this work is, properly speaking, entirely due, inas much as he kindly interested the Indian Government on behalf of my undertaking.

INTRODUCTION.

I. THE TIBETAN ALPHABET.

CONSONANTS.

The names of all the Consonants sound in a, pronounced like the a in the English word 'far'.

ཀ ka pronounced like the French c — car	ན na nard
ཁ ḱa like the English c or k — cart	པ pa the French p — pas
ག ga harder than the English (hard) g	ཕ ṕa the English p — part
ང ṅa ng — pang	བ ba bard
ཅ ċa the soft English g — ginger	མ ma mart
ཆ čа ch — chart	ཙ tsa (ts) parts
ཇ ǰa j — jar	ཚ t́sa (aspirated)
ཉ nya the French gn — campagne	ཛ dza (ds) — guards
ཏ ta the French t — tard	ཝ wa waft
ཐ t́a the English t — tart	ཞ ž̀a (zh) like the English s in leisure
ད da dart	ཟ za like the English z — zeal
	འ a (basis for vowels)
	ཡ *) ya yard
	ར ) ra rasp
	ལ la last
	ཤ ṡa (sh) — sharp
	ས sa salve
	ཧ ha half
	ཨ 'a (basis for vowels)

*) ཡ ya, when combined, as second consonant, with k- and p-sounds, or with m, is written under the first letter, assuming the shape of ྱ, thus ཀྱ kya, པྱ pya, མྱ mya etc.

) ར ra, when combined as second letter, with k-, t- and p-sounds is written under the first, in the shape of ྲ, thus: ཀྲ, kra, ཏྲ tra, བྲ bra etc. — When combined with another consonant as first letter, it is written over the second, thus: རྐ rka, རྙ rṅa, རྡ rda etc., but it is seldom heard in speaking.

The so-called Sanskrit Cerebrals are represented in Tibetan letters by ཊ, ཋ, ཌ, ཎ, ཥ, and when in this dictionary they are transcribed, they are marked by a dot underneath: ṭ, ṭ, ḍ, ṇ, ṣ.

The figure ཝ (wa-zur or small wa) attached to the foot of a letter, is often used to distinguish homonyms in writing, e.g. ཚ tsa hot and ཚྭ tsa (tswa) salt.

The dot, which stands at the end of every syllable and of every word, is called Tseg (tseg) and is indispensable for a correct writing or reading.

When ཡ stands as a prefix, it is, when transcribed, represented by y, e.g. ཡིག་ yig, ཡཏམ་ ytam etc.

VOWELS.

The alphabetical order of the vowels is: a, i, u, e, o; they have in Tibetan the same sound as they have in German, Italian, and most other European languages: a sounds like the English a in 'far', i like ee in 'peer' or i in 'pin', u like u in 'rule' or in 'pull', e like a in 'fate' or e in 'met', o like o in 'note' or in 'not'.

As the vowel a is inherent in every consonant, so that even a single letter may form a word, e.g. བ་ ba (cow), ས་ sa (earth), there is no special character or letter required for this vowel. The other four vowels are represented by little hooks, ི standing for i, ུ for u, ེ for e, ོ for o. The marks for i, e, o are placed over the letter, that for u under it. Examples: པད་མ་ pad-ma, རི་ ri, མེ་ me, བུ་མོ་ bu-mo.

The letter ཨ is used as a basis for initial vowels, thus: ཨ་མ་ 'a-ma; the letter འ serves as a basis for initial and final vowels: འོ་མ་ 'o-ma, དགའ་ dga'.

The vowel-sounds of འ, when transcribed, are indicated by the mark ': འ 'a, འི 'i, འུ 'u, འེ 'e, འོ 'o, whilst the ཨ-vowels are denoted by the mark ' placed over the respective letters: ཨ 'a, ཨི 'i, ཨུ 'u, ཨེ 'e, ཨོ 'o. — The real nature of the letters འ and ཨ is treated of in the latter part of the Introduction.

Whenever འ is a prefixed letter, the mark ◦, in transcribing, is put under the consonant following the འ e.g. འདུ ◦du, འགྲོ་བ་ ◦gro-ba.

Note. For a ready 'finding of words' in the Dictionary, it should be borne in mind, that the articles are arranged in the alphabetical order of the initial consonants and their prefixed and superscribed letters. Thus: ཀ—དཀ—བཀ—ཀྱ—ཀྲ—སྐ—; ཁ—མཁ—འཁ— etc. etc.

II. PRONUNCIATION.

With regard to the language, with which I am dealing, it must, on the one hand, be admitted, that distinctions between sounds and, especially, variations in the mode of expressing their values as embodied in a written character, are far more numerous in Tibetan than either in Sanskrit or Hindi, in which two languages there is really little or no opening for mistake or ambiguity in this respect. But on the other hand, Tibetan is scarcely more irregular than French pronunciation, and a few definite rules enjoy universally recognized acceptation.

There is, however, one special difficulty in the case of Tibetan which, at the present stage of that language, renders it practically impossible to set up an equable and authoritative standard of pronunciation, and this is the existence of a great number of independent and well-defined dialects. An attempt to deal partially with this difficulty, — to append, let me suppose, to every word from three to five different pronunciations would involve a waste of time and an extension of space quite disproportionate to the value of the result. And yet, if one has to strike a preference in favour of one particular dialect, it is very hard to determine, which is to be selected. At first sight, it might seem the most natural course to fix upon the speech of the best educated classes in the capital city Lhasa. But when this method was followed, or when at least an endeavour was made to act upon it, by Georgi and then by Schröter, only scant approval was bestowed upon it by European critics, and there were and are several reasonable arguments to be urged against its adoption. Of all the dialects this presents to the European ear and tongue the greatest difficulties, and accommodates itself least readily to the written character. Moreover, in my own case, I have to add that I do not consider myself sufficiently master of it to care to risk its application to each individual word. Besides, modern political circumstances make this dialect, for the present, the least available for general use.

Csoma chose a much more manageable and a much more widely circulating mode of pronunciation, though one which presents problems of its own, when it has to be fitted to the written character: the West-Tibetan dialect. Here again, in representing each separate word, one has, in reality, to make choice between two, three or four pronunciations, of which one agrees best with the written character, another conforms closest to the rules of spelling, a third recommends itself as that most frequent in conversational language. In my own smaller Tibetan dictionary I went no farther than to distinguish between two principal groups, which I termed West-Tibetan and Central-Tibetan; but in a more scientific work like the present I may permit myself to call more minute attention to the niceties and refinements of the language before us. I have, accordingly, published a number of specimens from my note-book, in which I kept a collection of typical words, of which I availed myself as often as I had the opportunity of meeting the representatives of remote districts, and of enquiring concerning their manner of speech at home. Whenever in this collection a word had not been entered on sound native authority, or had not been sufficiently discussed, I preferred to mark it with a note of interrogation, and not to allow any conclusion from analogy, or any theory of pronunciation to interfere with the design of my handy-book and its simple and unprejudiced statement of fact. I may therefore, I hope, claim for this list a high degree of trustworthiness, even among collections of the kind, into which words can sometimes have slipped, as they had been heard once, and perhaps were not heard again.

In order to denote the pronunciation, I follow the scheme of Professor Lepsius. Some objections have been urged against this scheme; yet, amongst all systems of the kind, so far as I have become acquainted with them, I have no hesitation in affirming that of Professor Lepsius to be the best, and it is certainly also that most appropriate for my purpose. A thorough study of the 'Standard Alphabet by R. Lepsius, 2nd edition, London, Williams and Norgate. Berlin, Hertz, 1863' may be recommended to all persons, who interest themselves in phonetic investigations. As I can scarcely take it for granted, that the work mentioned will be already in the hands of every one, who may consult my dictionary, I shall endeavour, as briefly as possible, to indicate its essential plan and principles. Its rules may be stated as follows:

In order to mark sound, Lepsius uses the letters of the ordinary Latin alphabet. Where these are insufficient, he calls in the aid of a few Greek letters. Letters are used with the powers they most generally possess in European languages. (Thus z has its usual force, and does not stand for the peculiar sound ts, which belongs to it in the German language alone.) Sounds which lack exact representation are indicated by diacritical marks, placed above or below the letters which most nearly correspond. Every simple sound is represented by one and only one simple mark. Explosive and fricative consonants (these terms will be explained below) are denoted by different letters.

The following marks or signs are for vowels: the well known sign (˘) for a short, and (¯) for a long vowel; the mark of a modified vowel (¨), German ä, ö, ü, is placed by Lepsius, for practical reasons, below, not above the vowel (a̤, o̤. ṳ); a dot under the vowel denotes a close vowel-sound (e̩ = a in fate, o̩ in note); a horizontal line under the vowel denotes a more open vowel-sound (e̲ in 'there', o̲ in 'or, cord', which, indeed, supersedes the a̲ mentioned above); the mark (˜) above the vowel indicates a nasal quality, the breath passing, while uttering the sound, to a considerable extent through the nose (the French 'an, in, on, un' = ã, ẽ, õ, ũ).

In marking consonants, there is first the distinction to be noted, that they are partly explosives, formed by a rapid process of closing and re-opening the passage of the air at a certain point, partly fricatives and liquids, formed by a partial process of compressing or narrowing the air-passage; and secondly, they are distinguished in regard to the exact spot, where the process of articulation takes place. The lowest articulation takes place in the faucal region, close to the larynx (here, for example, h is formed); next comes the guttural region, at the throat, near the soft palate and uvula (here k is formed); it is marked, when necessary, with a dot above the consonant; then the palatal region, the hard palate, (here the German ch is formed in 'ich'); the mark is a stroke like the acute accent in Greek over the consonant; then the dental region, at the teeth and gums (d, t, s, sh), and finally the labial region, at the lips (b, p, m). There exists a further class of consonants in the Indian languages, and also in modern Tibetan, which are styled cerebrals; they are most of them modified dentals, formed by bending or curling the tongue upwards, and bringing the tip of it into contact with the hard palate in the centre or toward the hinder part of its roof; mark, a dot under the consonant.

Many of these letters, in order to become audible, require in pronouncing them a certain vocalic effort; others, to say the least, allow or suggest such an effort; the mark of these vocalized consonants is a small ring under the letter. When this vocalic effort is made by the medium of the nasal channel alone, the oral passage being simultaneously closed at some one of the points indicated above, we get the nasal consonants as a result. When the stoppage is made at the guttural point, ng is obtained (to be marked n̥); at the dental point, n; at the labial point, m. In order to conform with the two final rules, cited above from Lepsius, the Greek letter χ is used to represent the German ch, when it is guttural and hard, as in the word 'doch'; use is made of the Greek γ, when it is soft or accompanied by a vocalic tone (the Dutch g); χ̣ gives the force of a palatal ch (German 'ich' = iχ̣, 'milch' = milχ̣); ϑ is used to represent the strong English th (as in 'through'); ð renders the softer or vocalized tone (as in 'that'); a hard, sharp and hissing s or ss (as in 'yes', 'press') is marked as s; the soft vocalic s (as in 'his', 'rise') is represented by z; the hard rushing sound sh, German sch, is rendered by š; the sound of the French j by ž. If one attempts to give at the palatal point, where the English y (in 'year'), or the German j (in 'Jahr') is formed, the sound sh, German sch, one obtains the palatal ṣ̌, or the softened and vocalized ẓ̌. In the Dictionary ṡ and ż have been substituted for these marks.

Further, in many languages, what are properly combinations of two consonants come to be regarded as simple forms, this happening, either because they are gradual growths upon an original simpler form, or because they have a natural affinity to each other. Thus properly dental sibilants should be distinguished thus: tš, dž; but for the sake of simplicity Lepsius, in his second edition, marks them č and ǰ, or, with their palatal force, c and ɟ (instead of ć and ɟ́).

A further example of the combination of consonants is presented in what is known as aspiration, when the letter h is brought into more or less intimate connexion with another consonant. This introduces us to a very important distinction, belonging to the Tibetan language, which it is necessary to explain at some length, in accordance with which explosive consonants, as they have the force of tenues, mediae, or aspiratae, are treated. The tenues are produced by a sudden opening of the air-passage at one of the points above mentioned: throat, teeth, lips, such opening being unaccompanied by any sensible operation of the breath whatsoever. Thus, when quite exactly sounded, k, t, p, are produced. The mediae, g, d, b, are produced by the same process, carried out in a milder and less abrupt way, (the peculiar English pronunciation will come under consideration later). The aspiratae require a decided pressure by the breath (they will be found marked by the spiritus asper above the letter: k̔, t̔, p̔). In northern Germany, in England, and in Scandinavia, modern educated speech recognizes only mediae and aspiratae, for we give an aspirated sound to every k, t and p. The French and the Magyars distinguish consciously the pure tenues from the mediae; on the other hand they ignore the aspiratae. Tibetan pronunciation makes room and requires a mark for all three gradations. Nay more, it augments the class of explosive consonants or mutae by the addition of the dental sibilants in all three ranks or grades of aspiration: ཅ, ཆ, ཇ and ཙ, ཚ, ཛ, or according to the Standard Alphabet: c, č, ɟ and ts, tš, dz. At a later stage of the language some further modifications were introduced, which we shall subsequently allude to.

Let us now, passing from these general observations, draw attention to a few details of the Phonetic Table, which has been drawn up in deference to a wish that reached me from several quarters.

The first column of the Table, now under review, gives the ancient literal pronunciation, as it was in vogue in the seventh century of our era, and was settled at the time of the invention of the alphabet. Such a pronunciation relies, after all, for its justification on the hypothesis, that the inventors of the alphabet had for their first object to reproduce, as exactly as possible, an artistic reflection of the natural value of sounds as spoken by their contemporaries: that, therefore, a later pronunciation is most in conformity with the original genius of the language, if it gives with the greatest distinctness a special power to each written character. A reference to the Table will amply illustrate the fact, that a pronunciation, adopted on these principles, has actually maintained itself in one or the other provincial dialect, and it is very interesting to notice, that the purest and most striking forms of this survival have their homes in those districts, which are most remote from and least subject to the disintegrating and dissolving influences of the actual centre of Tibetan civilisation, the capital Lhasa. Thus the prefixes and the superscribed consonants, for the most part, are still sounded at each extremity of the whole territory, within which the language is spoken, both on the Western and the Eastern frontier, alike in Khams, which borders on China, and in Balti, which merges into Kashmere. Moreover, in both localities the same minor irregularities occur, transgressions against an exact rendering of the pronunciation according to the letters, the same frequent transformations of the tenues into the aspiratae, g and d (compare lower down) becoming γ or χ, b becoming w. Now, about twenty degrees of longitude separate Balti from Khams, and the former, embracing Islam, long since cut itself adrift from spiritual and religious cohesion with Tibet, and there, too, the dialect in other respects has greatly deteriorated, has admitted many foreign elements and has fallen altogether from the position of a literary language. The resemblances and correspondences noted can, therefore, scarcely be accounted for in any other way, than by assuming that an old and strong instinct of speech lived on in oral tradition for more than ten centuries on the outskirts of the Tibetan domain, which in the intermediate provinces has gradually surrendered and submitted to the spirit of change.

Columns 2—6 contain, on most pages, the provincial dialects in their geographical sequence from West to East. The dialects of Ladak, Lahoul and Spiti correspond to what in my smaller Tibetan dictionary I called the dialect of Western Tibet. The last named, Spiti, represents in some respects the transition to the dialects of Eastern Tibet, under which heading Tsang and Ü are to be classed. At the date of the publication of my former dictionary I was unacquainted with the dialect of Khams. Where a space is left vacant in the columns, the provincial pronunciation agrees with the model provided under column 1. Towards the end of the Table, where the anomalies become much more frequent, I have for the sake of clearness repeated the word.

The sign ཝ (which does not occur in this Table) was pronounced = བ, or ཧ in the substantive terminations ba and bo (v. Dict. p. 362), viz. = the English w, so that ཁྭ sounded exactly like the French word roi.

The Accent has seldom been marked, because, as in our Teutonic dialects, it generally rests on the root of the word. In the case of compounds, it more frequently falls on the last than on the first of the component parts. But accentuation, altogether, is not of great significance in this language.

With regard to Quantity, vowels are pronounced shorter, even in open syllables, than is the case for instance in England and Germany. This applies particularly to the Central Provinces. Absolutely long vowels occur only as a peculiarity of dialect. They indicate that a consonant has been dropped, in most provinces, s, in Ü, gs, in Tsang, l. A long vowel may also indicate the blending of vowels. But when in Ü and Tsang the d, (as in čē'-pa) and when in Lahoul the g (as in tó', ṗu'-rón) is partially dropped, the vowel likewise maintains a short abrupt pronunciation. Moreover, the region, to which I have just referred, is that in which the spoken language has been greatly affected by a foreign linguistic principle. A system of Tones has been introduced under manifestly Chinese auspices. I am told by European students of reputation, who have made the Tonic languages of Eastern Asia their special department, that only the first principles of what are known as the high and low Tones, have made their way into Tibetan. Here, as in the languages of Farther India, generally, which possess an alphabetic system of writing, the Tone is determined by the initial consonant of the word. This I have generally indicated in column 7, which column applies only to the Spiti, Tsang and Ü dialects. The system of Tones, as in Siam and elsewhere, has become of paramount importance in determining distinctions between words. An inhabitant of Lhasa, for example, finds the distinction between ཁ and ཀ, or between ཉ and ཨ, not in the consonant, but in the Tone, pronouncing ཁ and ཉ with a high note (as my Tibetan authorities were wont to describe it 'with a woman's voice', shrill and rapidly), ཀ and ཨ, on the contrary with a low note, and, as it appeared to me, more breathed and floating. This latter distinction is still more apparent with regard to those low-toned aspirates, that in the course of time were introduced in Central Tibet instead of the mediae, in contraposition to which now the original aspirates are used as high-toned; so more particularly in the dialect of Spiti. The low-toned aspirate I have indicated by h, the high-toned by the mark of the spiritus asper ‘.

Those letters of the alphabet, which as simple initial consonants have a deep tone, become with a superscribed letter or with a prefix high-toned, so also ཡ, when subscribed. The tenues remain, it would appear, unaffected by the Tone. With reference to the modifying effect of a final n, d, and ṅ, in different provinces, the Table may be consulted. The characterisation of the rushing sounds as 'palatals' is no doubt correct and agrees with the generally prevailing pronunciation; but the learner need not consider it as being of much importance.

The two letters, ཨ and ཨྭ, introduce us to a very interesting linguistic phenomenon. We meet here with the idea of the vowel absolute, the pure vocalic note, freed altogether from any presence of a consonant. This vowel-tone is rendered by the letter of the alphabet ཨ, in contradistinction to ཨྭ, which represents the Semitic א, the spiritus lenis of the Greeks, the audible re-opening of the air passage of the larynx. The difference may be observed, for example, in the manner of uttering the words, 'the lily, an endogen' and in the pronunciation of 'Lilian' (a name), in Tibetan ལི་ལི་ཨུན་ and ལི་ལི་ཨན་. Thus, whenever in the middle of a word one vowel succeeds another (hence also in all diphthongs), ཨ is used. Again, in Tibetan, as in every form of human speech, it cannot but be the commonest of occurrences for a vowel to follow a consonant, and the strict rule might seem to require the vocalic tone to be always indicated, which, according to Csoma, was originally done. However, as the Tibetan language, adopting the principle from Sanskrit, deems the sound of a to be naturally inherent in every consonant, while the other four vowels, as mere subspecies of the vowel absolute, are indicated by little hooks above or below the letter, and as the end of a syllable is always marked by a dot (called tseg), the function of ཨ in this capacity was soon seen to be quite superfluous. Its use is necessary only to obviate ambiguities, when for instance one of the five letters, used as prefixes, precedes a consonant with a; e.g. the word མད་, would be read 'mad'; whereas མདའ་, written thus, implies that the vowel does not precede but follow the consonant d, and consequently the m is prefix, and the word to be read 'mda'. If the vowel is not a, the sign of such vowel suffices, e.g. མདོ་ mdo; མདའོ་ mdao, standing now for མདའའོ་. Some practical difficulty attends the pronunciation of the pure vowel as an initial letter. In order that the effect of the consonant ཨྭ may not be produced, it is necessary, after opening the larynx, to allow the tone gently to set in and then to let it gradually gain fulness and force. I shall indicate this process by the mark ˻. The sound would be still more accurately represented than it is in the Table, thus: ˻aár-po, ˻úug-pa etc. Improper are the expedients of some of the dialects, the sound being hardened to y in Khams, to ཨྭ in Western Tibet; also Csoma's device of indicating it by an h is inadequate. This is a case in which the true pronunciation has been preserved in the Central Provinces, perhaps, because it almost necessarily implies the effort connected with the low Tone, above referred to, so that, when the invading system of Tones had here established its authority, it acted as a conservative element.

Finally, this vocalic tone can be used in connexion with certain consonants. It is unnecessary to indicate it in Tibetan, when it accompanies liquidae (m, n, ṅ, r, l) and sibilants; but with the mutae it must be marked, where the effect is that, with which we are familiar in the case of the English mediae, b, d, g, j, for instance in 'be, do, go, jew'. In Tibetan the vocalic effect accompanies aspirates too, and is marked by ཨ, placed as a prefix, which I transcribe thus ˳, e.g. ཨདུ་ ˳du = the English do. The pause on the tone is of course in the case of mutae a very short one. Here again, though only in the case of the mediae, we find this peculiarity preserved in its purity in Central Tibet. It is not difficult to understand, how, if one is careless about closing the nasal passage, a nasal articulation of this prefix can easily grow common. This has happened throughout Khams, and in the rest of Tibet at least in compound words; at Lhasa it is considered inelegant, as is also the sounding of any prefix. On the other hand, the dialect of Central Tibet neglects the distinction between ཨ and ཨྱ and pronounces the former only as a vocalic initial. In words from the Sanscrit the ཨྱ is used in some respect as a 'mora', to denote a long syllable, e. g. ཨྱི for ཨཱི; hence the opinion of Lamas of Lhasa, that it expresses prosodical length, when used as above in ཨདྱ.

ཀྱ mya, is not found in use in any of the dialects. The sole confirmation of its literal pronunciation depends upon the word myaṅ-ba which, perhaps a thousand years ago, found its way into the Bu-nan language (Tibar-skad, Cunningh.) and which the people of Lahoul, when speaking Tibetan, pronounce nyaṅ-wa. The process of transition to the cerebral ṭ-sounds in the words krad-pa etc. is in many places not yet completed, so that the sound of r is still more or less clearly distinguishable. The Prefixes have always constituted the most perplexing phenomena in the Tibetan language, At the time of the invention of the alphabet they must have represented a sort of anticipatory sound in close connexion with the initial consonant of the word. Certain seeming impossibilities of pronunciation, when one has, for instance, to deal with a prefix together with a threefold initial consonant (བདགྲ, བདབྲ) become less formidable, and not more embarrassing than those which meet us, for example, in the Polish language, when we ascertain that in Balti and Khams the three explosive prefixes are pronounced as fricatives, in which case v must be written for w. Thus གཡེ་བ yèi-wa, བཀྲ wkra, བསྒྲགས wsgrags call for no greater exertions, than do the Polish chciwy, wkrótce, wskroś. Our strongest ground for assuming this fricative pronunciation to be that of antiquity is, I think, that, had it been explosive, words like གཅུ, གཅོད would have coincided with བཅུ, བཅོད. Yet it must be acknowledged that a pronunciation bcu, bka etc. exists, side by side with wcu, wka etc. — ཨ, as a liquid, offers no difficulty. — ཨྱ, as a prefix, is no consonant.

A doubt must still cling to ཤ, and I do not venture to determine its ancient pronunciation. It is by a strange anomaly that, in most dialects, when prefixed to ཟ, both it and the initial consonant die away into a spiritus lenis; and almost still more singular it is, that where it still asserts an independent force, in Khams and in Balti, it is sounded like ཡ with the power of y. The investigations of Lepsius go indeed to prove, that ཤ and ཡ are complements to each other; but how came, at the beginning, two letters to be chosen as signs for one and the same sound? Most probably the original sound was ð, which then very soon passed into y. The variations between r and s in Ladak afford no sure hold for drawing inferences.

The purpose, for which the Phonetic Table was drawn up, will have been attained, if I succeed in convincing my readers, 1. that for scientific objects the pronunciation, as it is given in Column 1, is the most suitable, and that with a good conscience it can be recommended in the place of that introduced by Csoma; 2. that its system is regular enough to render it unnecessary to give the pronunciation of every individual word throughout the work; 3. that I present in this Table, in regard to the various dialects, as much in the way of results as, down to the present, it has been possible for European students to acquire and to put into shape for the service of a European public.

ཀྱི་ kyi, affix I. to sbst.-roots, ending in d, b, s: sign of the genitive case. — II. to verbal roots, after the same final letters, and then without an essential difference from kyis, to which we add in this place also examples of the other terminations gi(s), gyi(s), yi(s), i (the s by itself is not used after verbal roots): a. in the sense of a gerund, meaning by (doing something), because, dgós-kyis ˌdóṅ-ṅo we come because it is necessary . . . , or more freq. though, dgai though she is glad . . . Dzl., in which case it may often be rendered in English by but: she is glad, but . . . ; zas bzáṅ-po mi ˌdód-kyis ṫa-mál-pa zos he did not care for dainties, but ate vulgar food Dzl.; or it has to be omitted: bdén-pa yín-gyis rdzún-pa ma yin it is true, no fiction Dzl. — b. as an adjective, forming, like kyin (q. v.), with ˌdug or yod a periphrastical present tense e. g. ˌgroi ˌdug he is walking, ˌoṅ-gi yod he is coming. — c. at the end of a sentence in the sense of a finite verb and more particularly in the 1. pers. fut.: ˌgyod mi rmoi I shall not make you suffer for it Dzl., ṅas grogs byá-yis I shall help Glr., bžag-gi, and: bžág-gis I shall put Glr. This use of kyi(s) is said to be quite common at the present time in C., whereas in W. not only the whole gerundial use, but even the distinction of kyi, gyi, gi in the genitive case of a sbst. has disappeared from colloquial language, instead of which the last consonant is repeated and the vowel i added: šiṅ-ni of the wood, yid-di of the mind, bal-li of the wool.

Note 1. kyi(s) when combined with adjective roots, includes the verb to be, e. g. muṅ-gi = máṅ-po yin-gyi. — 2. In colloquial language and later literature the genitive of the verbal root often takes the place of the genit. infinitivi, which seldom occurs in the old classical style, e. g. nam ˚tsoi bár-du lifelong. — 3. ǰi nús kyi(s), ǰi túb-kyi(s) or vulg. túb-bi, as much as (I, you etc.) can (could etc.) — 4. kyi(s), when denoting an antithesis, is often followed by a pleonastical ˛ón-kyaṅ.

དཀོན་མཆོག་ *dkon-mčog (W.: kon-čóg, kon-čóg, C.: kọn-čó') 1. the most precious thing. Buddhism has always sought the highest good not in anything material, but in the moral sphere, looking with indifference, and indeed with contempt, on everything merely relating to matter. It is not, however, moral perfection or the happiness attained thereby, which is understood by the 'most precious thing', but the mediator or mediators who procure that happiness for mankind, viz. Buddha, (the originator of the doctrine), the doctrinal scriptures and the corporate body of priests, चिरत्न, dkon-mčóg ysum. Now, although this triad cannot by any means be placed on a level with the Christian doctrine of a triune God, yet it will be easily understood, how the innate desire of man to adore and worship something supernatural, together with the hierarchical tendency of the teaching class, have afterwards contributed to convert the acknowledgment of human activity for the benefit of others (for such it was undoubtedly on the part of the founder himself and his earlier followers) into a devout, and by degrees idolatrous adoration of these three agents, especially as Buddha's religious doctrine did not at all satisfy the deeper wants of the human mind, and as its author himself did not know anything of a God standing apart and above this world. For whatever in Buddhism is found of beings to whom divine attributes are assigned, has either been transferred from the Indian and other mythologies, and had accordingly been current among the people before the introduction of Buddhism, or is a product of philosophical speculation, that has remained more or less foreign to the people at large. — 2. As then the original and etymological signification of the word is no longer current, and as to every Tibetan 'dkon-mčog' suggests the idea of some supernatural power, the existence of which he feels in his heart, and the nature and properties of which he attributes more or less to the three agents mentioned above, we are fully entitled to assign to the word dkon-mčog also the signification of God, though the sublime conception which the Bible connects with this word, viz. that of a personal, absolute, omnipotent being, will only with the spread of the Christian religion be gradually introduced and established.

Note 1. raṅ-grub-dkon-mčog with Schr. is evidently the appellation of the Christian God adopted by the Rom. Cath. missionaries of those times. — 2. In the older writings dkon-mčog occurs (as far as I know) never without ysum, and combinations such as dkon-mčog-la mčod-pa byed-pa or ysol-ba ˌdebs-pa, as well as blama dkon-mčog, are to be found only in writings of a comparatively recent date. — 3. Instead of the phrase of asseveration: dkon-mčog ṡes, God knows! the mere words dkon-mčog ysum are frequently used in the same sense.

དཀོན་པ dkón-pa C., B., -mo W. rare, scarce, and therefore dear, precious, valuable (in an objective sense, cf. ycés-pa) ˌjig-rtén-na dkón-no is exceedingly rare in the world Dzl., ˌjig-rtén-na dkón-par bzáṅ-ṅo it is of a beauty rarely to be met with in the world Dzl.; kyod ˌdra mtóṅ-na dkón-rgyu med to see a person like you, is nothing particular Mil.; lċe bdé-mo-la lhá čos dkon with a prattler religion is scarce, there is generally not much religion about him Mil. — dkonnór riches, valuables Mil.

In mysticism and magic, however, several other more or less arbitrary significations are assigned to the word, e. g. it is said to be used for lúskyi dkyil-ˌkor the whole extent or bulk of the body, = the body, dkyil-ˌkor-gyi ynás-su ˌčáṅ-ba to wear on one's body (e. g. an amulet); or instead of čós-kyi dky.: dkyil kor mtóṅ-ba to behold the whole extent of religious doctrine (?).

Note. In Lex. dkyil is said to be = मण्ड; perh. merely because dkyil-ˌkor is used for मण्डल? But mán-dal-gyi dkyil-kor is the Buddhistic map of the world, representing mount Sumeru with the surrounding continents etc.

དཀྱེལ་ dkyel seems to be acc. to Cs. a synonym of kloṅ. I only met with the word dkyél-po če in a medical work; Sch. explains it by universe, and a native Lex. by kaṅ yáṅs-pa the wide house, which possibly may signify the same.

The one may be, after all, as correct as the other, for all these large numbers are, of course, not meant to be used in serious calculations, but are mere imitations of fantastic Indian extravagancies.

After quotations bka or bkao (= skad & skad-do) means: thus says (the holy book or teacher). bka as first part of a compound is frequently used to give the word adjoined the character of respectfulness, and is therefore not to be translated separately.

Prot.* This word has been adopted on account of its etymological signification, although it differs in its form and use from the σταυρός of the N. T., which is unknown in Tibet and India. Additional explanation will be at any rate required on the part of missionaries; but much more so in the case of the kro-če (Ital. croce) of the Rom. Cath. missionaries of the last century. In favour of the word ysal-šiṅ, pointed stake for empaling a delinquent, speaks the circumstance, that this is also the original and classical signification of σταυρός, and that Buddhists from their own legends are well acquainted with the idea of martyrdom inflicted in this manner. Still ysal-šiṅ leads to a conception of the death of Christ historically untrue and revolting to our feelings and is therefore better not employed; moreover it is to be assumed that in the times of the Evangelists σταυρός was the term generally used for cross, whilst in the case of ysal-šiṅ no Tibetan thinks of anything else but empaling.

སྐར་བ་ skar-ba Cs.: 'a penning of cattle, assortment, separation, to pen, to fold, to separate'. But as these significations seem to belong to the spelling bkar-ba and dgar-ba, it will be safer to confine the verb skar-ba, pf. bskar, imp. skor, to the following, 1. to hang up, skar-tań-če, čár-la skár-če* id. Ld. (e. g. clothes). — 2. to weigh, and skar weight, gau ńul gui skar a little box weighing 9 rupees (about 4 ounces); skár-ka* or *-ká weight; skar-tsád measure, scale. W., C. — 3. skar-tág táń-če to inquire rigorously; to restrict, to bind down, to flog; skar-ltág a rigorous inquiring, a flogging W., also C.

སྐར་མ་ skár-ma Ssk. तारा 1. star, fixed star, nyi zla yza skar sun, moon, planets and stars; sometimes it is used generally: skar-čén a very large, uncommonly bright star, esp. Venus when appearing as evening- or morning-star; nyín-moi skár-ma a star seen in the daytime (a thing of very rare occurrence). — 2. constellation, asterism; btsas-skár constellation of nativity Med; yań-skár propitious constellation (such are the nakṣatras no. ㄥ to ㄡ, v. rgyu-skár).

Comp, skár-kúń (the same word as dkar-kúń, but of a different etymology) window. — skar-kóńs Cs.: 'the angular distance between two stars or planets' (?) — skar-ltá a weight ('5 points' on the steelyard for gold) = 1 žo or $^1/_{20}$ ounce; as money = $^1/_3$ rupee. — skar-čú 'star-water'; bathing under the constellation skár-ma rib-čí (prob. rewati, the 28th nakṣatra, is meant) in October is considered beneficial for every kind of complaint, because Saṅs-rgyás smán-pai rgyál-po (quasi 'Buddha Aesculapius', to whom the origin of the medical science is ascribed by Tibetan Buddhists), bathed in that season, and therefore Tibetans, though not particularly fond of washing and bathing in general, are said to follow this example pretty frequetnly. — skar-mdá (Cs.: 'ignis fatuus'?) a shooting star, ltuń or sa-la dril is coming down, ₀ṕaṅs Mil. id. — skar-dpyád, -rtsís astrology. — skar-ṕrán a small star. — skar-tsógs the starry host. — skar-₀dzín 'star-catching', making one's self sure of a propitious constellation, e. g. for an intended journey, by a sham departure, conveying luggage or goods to the next village etc., but then interrupting and postponing it to a more convenient time.

སྐལ་བ skál-ba Ssk. भाग, resp. sku-skál 1. portion, share; bgo-skál allotted portion; zas-skál portion of food, ration; raṅ-skál personal share; nor-skál or syal-nór Glr. hereditary portion, inheritance; skál-ba ma čád-par without being shortened of his portion Mil.; ma mt̀óṅ-ba skál-ba ma mčis-pa ◦dra it does not seem to fall to my lot to see my mother. — skal-čád dried up, withered Sch. (?) — 2. in a special sense: the portion of good or bad fortune that falls to a man's lot, as a consequence of his former actions, lot, fate, destiny, a. relatively: skál-ba bzáṅ-po, ṅán-pa good, bad fortune; tse ◦dii grogs-s'ál the matrimonial share of the present life, the connubial fate for which a person is predestinated Glr. (The Buddhist priests pretend to be able to calculate the skál-ba of any one after his death) b. in a positive and good sense, denoting either prosperity and blessing as a consequence of good actions, or those actions themselves as being pious and meritorious, so that skal-ldán means happy, blessed as well as pious, devout, and skal-méd unhappy, irreligious, impious. skal-ldán are all those who have devoted themselves to virtue and treasured up more or less good works, and who may expect to be promoted in proportion. The term worthy, therefore, though not quite correct as to the word itself, is still very appropriate as it regards the subject; even venerable, holy may be applied occasionally, cf. भगवत् and भगवान्. Also some single blessing or spiritual gift may be meant by skál-ba and so the Ommani-padmehūm is called the čos-skál, 'the religious treasure', of Tibet Glr.

སྐས་ཀ skás-ka B., C., skás-ka, skás-pa C., skrás-ka (pronounced t̀é-ka C., ṡrás-ka, ṡrḗ-ka W.*), even skas, skad ladder, generally consisting of the notched trunk of a tree; rkyáṅ-skad C. 'single ladder', the same, compared with two or three of them joined together, to make a sort of staircase with broader steps; do-tá C., do-ṡrás, do-ṡrḗ* W.* a flight of stone-steps; gya-ṡrás, gya-ṡrḗ W., gya-kḗ* C. (Schr.)* a regular staircase as in European houses; gru-skás Glr. prob.: flight of steps at the corner of a building; gro-skad Glr. fol. 7 appeared to be unknown to those that were consulted; skas-kyi rim-pa Cs. steps; ṡra-ldaṅ, ṡral-dáṅ* W.* spokes of a ladder; skas ◦gram Cs. the two side-pieces of a staircase or ladder; skas ◦dzug-pa to apply a ladder Schr., Cs.

སྐུ sku, Ssk. काय, sometimes मूर्त्ति 1. also sku-lus, sku-yzugs, resp. for lus: body; by being prefixed to the names of parts of the body and even of everything that has reference to the bodily existence of a person, it imparts to them the character of respectful terms: sku-stod, -smad the upper, lower, part of the body; sku-ṡa flesh; sku-mt̀sál (for sku-k'rag) blood Cs.; sku-mdóg colour of the skin, sku-ná age; sku-tse lifetime, life; sku-káṅs state of health; sku-skál portion, share, sku-čás goods, stores Mil., sku-bsód virtue, happiness Tar.; sku-skyés a present (given to or received from a respected personage); sku-◦bág image, statue *Glr.; sku-mdun-pa (C.: kun-dyn-pa)* or -druṅ-pa attendant of a man of rank; ku-ǰar-wa ('adherent', v. ◦byar-ba) id. C.; sku-nye Sch. relation, kinsman; sku-yṡegs-pa dying, death (of a king etc.) Glr.; sku-bstod praise Sch.; sku-ṡogs (acc. to Cs. instead of sku yṡogs 'the side' = your presence) a title of honour, when we should say: your or his honour, your or his worship, in W. only for clerical dignitaries, in C. also for other persons of rank. Even buildings (monasteries etc.) are honoured by these respectful expressions: sku-dkar ysol-ba to 'administer' whitewash. — 2. in a special sense: the person of Buddha, whom philosophers represent in three forms of existence called sku-ysum चिकाय, viz.: čós-kyi sku, धर्मकाय, loṅs-spyód-kyi sku संभोगकाय and sprúl-pai sku निर्माणकाय. These three 'persons', however, have as little as dkon-mc̀og-ysum any thing in common with the Christian Trinity, nor even with the Indian Trimūrtti, for the first state, the 'body of law', the absolute body, is Buddha in the Nirvāna, the so-called first world of abstract existence i. e. non-existence, which is the ultimate aim and end of every existence and the ideal aspired to by every believing Buddhist; the second state, the 'body of happiness or glory' is Buddha in the perfection of a conscious and active life of bliss in the second world (heaven or Elysium), which state however is inferior to the first; the third, the 'body of transformation and incarnation', is Buddha in the third or visible world, as man on earth. Notwithstanding the altogether abstract character of čós-sku, as a philosophical conception, Buddhistic fancy is pleased to represent it as a visible image of Buddha, shining in the colours of the rainbow, or at least as a brilliant apparition of light, though impalpable and unapproachable; and this is not only a notion of the vulgar, but is acknowledged also in literature. More recent speculators have even added a no-bo-nyíd-kyi sku superior to the three, viz. that which is eternal in the essence of a Buddha, even čós-sku, the absolute body, being described by these philosophers as transient. The unintelligible passage in Cs.'s dictionary, p. 305 b. might be corrected thus: 'adding to the former three as a fourth' etc. — To this signification belong the compounds sku-rím, resp. for rím-ʿgro reverence, respect, particularly in the special sense of a solemn sacrificial ceremony, performed on public and private occassions, e. g. in cases of disease; sku-rím byéd-pa to perform such a ceremony. — *sku-rtén, sku-tsáb, sku-yzúgs, sku-ʿdrá (W. kun-ḍá)* image of Buddha etc. — 3. image, statue, of Buddha or other holy persons, ysér-sku a gold image, rdó-sku a stone image, ʿjím-sku an image of clay, brís-sku a painted image, ʿbúr-sku a basso-relievo, rkós-sku an engraved, blúgs- or ldugs-sku a molten, tágs-sku a woven image Cs. — sku-ʿbúm 'mausoleum' or acc. to another etymology 'the 100 000 images', n. of the famous monastery Kumbúm east of the Kokonor (v. Travels of Huc and Gabet). — sku ysuñ thugs 1. (cf. sku no. 1) resp. f. lus ñag yid the three spheres of a man's doings or sufferings, works, words and thoughts. — 2. the rten ysum, the three representations of Buddha: the image of his person, the books containing his doctrine, the pyramid (mčod-rtén) as the symbol of his grace. — sku-lña-rgyál-po five deities of degenerated Buddhism Schl. 157.

II. sbst. 1. the turning round or about etc.; more particularly 2. the orb or round of transmigration within the six classes of physical beings. Though the Buddhist has not a more ardent wish, than to be finally released from the repeated wanderings of the soul, yet he believes so firmly in these migrations, that he will rather follow the doctrines of his philosophers, and doubt the reality of the perception of his senses, than think it possible, that the whole theory of the ˌkór-ba with all its consequences should be nothing but a product of human imagination. — ˌkór-bar ˌkór-ba to turn round, to wander about in the orb of transmigration; ˌkór-bai btsón-ra, ˌdam, mtso the dungeon, the swamp, the sea of the ˌkór-ba; ˌkór-ba-las ˌdás-pa to escape from the ˌkór-ba, = to enter into the Nirwana ˌkór-ˌdas 1. abbreviation of the foregoing. 2. for ˌkór-ba dan ˌdas-pa the stay in the ˌkór-ba and the escape from it; ˌkor ˌdas ynyís-su ňas ma mtoň I have not seen that there is a difference between these two Mil.

It was introduced into Tibet about 1000 p. Chr.; cf. also Schl. 45. — ˌkór-lo sgyúr-ba, or skór-ba, with čós-kyi, to turn the wheel of doctrine, = to preach, to teach religion, (vulgo understood only of the turning of the praying-cylinder); čǫ́-kyi kór-lǫ lén-mor bę́-pa* C.* to devote one's self to the preaching of religion. On the other hand: ˌkór-los sgyúr-bai rgyál-po (चक्रवर्तिन्) Will.: 'a ruler, the wheels of whose chariot roll everywhere without obstruction, emperor, sovereign of the world, the ruler of a čakra, or country extending from sea to sea'. In this Indian explanation two different etymologies are given, the former of which is undoubtedly the original one. Buddhism and the Tibetan language have added a third signification, 'praying-wheel'; modern scholars a fourth, that of the 'orb' or round of transmigration or metempsychosis: hence the confusion attaching to the import of this word.

གང་ gaṅ I. interr. pron. 1. who? which? B., C., W.; when used adjectively, it generally follows its sbst. (so at least in good language), and if preceding it, it stands in the genit. case: ɲyogs gaṅ which region or part of the world? gáṅ-gi dus which time? in the latter case it may also mean whose: gáṅ-gi lam whose way? ɟyi naṅ ɣnyis čós lugs gaṅ bzaṅ which of the two doctrines, the Brahmanic or the Buddhist, is the right one? ɟyogs gáṅ-nas oṅ, ṅo mi ɕés-pas not knowing from what part of the country she comes Glr.; ma ni gaṅ yin bu ni gaṅ yin bye-brág ɟyes decide which is the mother and which the child Dzl.; gaṅ ɕé-na lit. 'if one asks which?' corresponds sometimes to the English 'namely, to wit, viz.'; gáṅ-na where? gaṅ-la whither? gáṅ-nas, gáṅ-las whence? gáṅ-du where? whither? gáṅ-na-ba = ga-na-ba v. above; gáṅ-pa, yul gáṅ-pa, col. gaṅ-yúl-pa, from what country? — 2. C. for ci what? ghaṅ zér-ra(m) what shall I say? kyṵ'-kyi miṅ-la ghaṅ zér-ghyi yṵ'-dham what is your name? gháṅ-la yoṅ what are you coming for? what do you want? — 2. rel., or rather correl. pron., who, which, he who, she who, whoever, whichever, whatever, ὅστις: gaṅ ɟyiṅ ɕóṅ-ba de ni she who follows Dzl.; gaṅ gos ˌdód-pa-la gos byuṅ whoever wanted clothes, to him they were given Dzl.; rig-pa gaṅ rnó-ba čig-la stér-ro I give it to him who is the sharpest as to sagacity Glr.; kyód-kyi dpá-ba gaṅ yín-pa-la kó-bo ṅgu the bravery which you have shown pleases me Tar. 21, 13; rgyál-bu gáṅ-du ɕe ˌpós-pai ɣnás-su sóṅ-ṅo they went to the place where the prince had changed life Dzl.; gáṅ-gi lam sṅón-du grub-pa des . . . he whose way (of sanctification) will be completed first, shall . . . Stg. Often ɕams-čád or a plural-sign accompanies the partic.: gaṅ mi ɕés-pa-dag they who do not understand Dzl. Rarely in B., but frq. in the col. language of W., the pa after the verb is supplied by a gerundial particle, such as na, nas: gaṅ táṅ-na kyad med which you intend to give is all the same. Sometimes, however, particularly in more modern literature, no pa is added to the verb at all, esp. when gaṅ is joined with yin, yod, or dug, so that such sentences in their form are very similar to the relative sentences of occidental languages; but that this omission of pa, although sanctioned by long continued use, is after all an incorrect breviloquence, and that pa must always be understood, appears from the frq. occurrence of the plural sign immediately after yod etc.: de ɣnyis-kyi sṅid gaṅ yód-rnams the claims to government which both of these maintained Glr.; gáṅ-ɕe — déi-ɕe when — then; gaṅ žig whoever, if any body etc. frq.; vulgo in W. often pleon. = any or some, gaṅ žig čims-si ɟi-la on account of some law-suit, instead of čims žig-gi ɟyir; gaṅ la-lá žig is of a similar meaning, but less frq. The import of the word is still more generalized by yaṅ being added to gaṅ or to the verb: dṅós-po gaṅ mṫoṅ yaṅ Mil. whatever he sets his eyes upon; gaṅ ltár-na yaṅ, gaṅ yin kyaṅ whatsoever it may be, however that may be, be that as it may, at all events, esp. C.; gaṅ-yaṅ-rúṅ-ba, gaṅ-rúṅ, gaṅ-ci-yaṅ-rúṅ whosoever he may be, whatsoever it may be, quicunque; ɣnas gaṅ-yaṅ-rúṅ-ba-na whereever; gáṅ-nas gáṅ-du skyes kyaṅ out of which class of beings and into whichsoever I shall be re-born Dzl. — 3. indefinite pron., used absolutely, each, every, any, all, when followed by a negation = not any, none, no: žo dar ču sogs gaṅ yaṅ ka, curdled milk, buttermilk, water, every thing tastes bitter Med.; saṅs-rgyás gáṅ-gis kyaṅ ma bčágs-pa not yet trodden by any Buddha Glr.; ɟaṅ gaṅ ṫogs gyis be as useful as ever possible Mil.; gáṅ-dag all Glr. and elsewhere; dé-dag mi ˌbyuṅ gaṅ yaṅ med these are to be found everywhere; gáṅ-la gaṅ-ˌdul converting each in the manner best suited to him; gáṅ-gis kyaṅ = cis-kyaṅ by all means; gáṅ-gis kyaṅ dgós-pa méd-pa altogether useless Mil.; gaṅ daṅ gaṅ Cs., Sch. (more frq. gaṅ daṅ ci) every thing whatsoever Glr.

The word, however, so little implies the clerical state, that it is used directly for 2. layman, one that has not taken orders Dzl. ২৩০, 5 and elsewhere. — 3. (resp. žal-zág) tobacco-pipe, not the hukka, but a small sort, similar to ours, gen. made of metal; gaṅ-mgó bowl of a tobacco-pipe; gaṅ-mžúg mouth-piece or tip of it C.

གད་པ་ gád-pa 1. a bluff; precipitous river-banks, such as frequently inclose the mountain rivers of Tibet. — 2. In W. the word seems to refer more to the species of rock, which is favourable to the formation of such banks: conglomerate; gad-ṕúg a cavern in such a bank; gad-rgyál the gigantic walls of conglomerate rock, through which mountain rivers have cut their way.

སྒྲུབ་པ་ sgrúb-pa I. vb. pf. bsgrubs, fut. bsgrub, imp. sgrub(s) (cf. ˚grúb-pa Ssk. साध) 1. to complete, finish, perform, carry out, an order, a wish, hence usually with bžín-du Dzl.; to make, achieve, manufacture, obtain, attain, dṅúl-rdo-la dṅul bsgrúb-tu btúb-pa ltar séms-čan-la Saṅs-rgyás bsgrúl-tu btúb-pa yin-no in like manner as silver is obtained from silver-ore, Buddha may proceed from beings Thgy.; don sgrúb-pa to attain to one's aim, to obtain a blessing, a boon; tse ˚dii don sgrúb-pa to care for the wants of this life; to procure, rgyágs-pye flour, as provision for a journey Mil.; nor sgrúb-pa to gain riches; to furnish with, to supply, one's self or others Mil. — 2. lha-sgrúb-pa implies, in accordance to Brahmanic-Buddhistic theology, not so much the making a deity propitious to man (Cs.), as rendering a god subject to human power, forcing him to perform the will of man. This coercion of a god seems to be effected in a twofold manner. The practise of the common people is to perform a vast amount of prayers and conjurations, specially intended for the god that is to be made subject. Another method is adopted by saints, who are advanced in every kind of religious knowledge. They continue their sgóm-pa, or profound meditation, for months and years, until the deity, finally overcome, stands before them visible and tangible, nay, until they have been personally united with and, as it were, incorporated into the invoked and subjected god. Whilst the conatus, the labouring in this arduous undertaking, is often called sgrúb-pa, the arriving at the proposed end is designated by ˚grúb-pa, e.g. rgyál-pos rta-mgrín sgrúb-pa mdzád-pas ˚grúb-nas rta-skád btón-pas etc., the king began to coerce Taḍin (Hayagrīwa), and when the latter was made obsequious, so as to appear, a neighing was heard etc. Glr.; sgom-sgrúb byéd-pa for sgóm-pa daṅ sgrúb-pa byéd-pa Mil. — bsgrub-ḳáṅ, sgrub-ynás, sgrub-ɸúg the house, the place, the cavern, where a saint applies himself to sgrúb-pa; sgrúb-pa-po one effectuating the coercion described above, Sambh. frq. — sgrub-rtágs tokens, proofs of perfection, of an accomplished saint. — sgrub-ṭábs the method of effecting the coercion, of obliging a god to make his appearance; sgrub-byéd 1. he that accomplishes the coercion (cf. Schl. p. 247). 2. a kind of bile Med. — sgrub-ɣšén the Bon-doctrine Mil.

(297): 'sgro-skúr Verneinen und Lästerung'. Cs. renders sgro-skúr by 'exaggerated praise and blame'; sgro-skúr ₒdébs-ba occurs also in Mil. The phrase sgro-ₒdógs ɣcód-pa might therefore be rendered: to put an end to overrating and to prejudice; this meaning, however, does not suit in every instance, and acc. to expressions heard from people in C., sgro-ₒdógs ɣcód-pa would signify: to turn to account, to work one's way up, to contest for a prize. Finally ought to be mentioned that acc. to Schr. sgro-ₒdógs spyód-pa (sic) denotes 'logic'. A connection between these heterogeneous significations is not discernible, but a clew may perhaps be found hereafter. — 3. sack, bag (?), tál-sgro Glr. was explained by: a sack full of ashes.

ཇི་ལིམ་ ci-lim (Hind. چِلَم 1. the bowl of a hukka (water-pipe). — 2. a hukka.

ཇི་ཙེ་ ci-tse Kun., also tsé-tse, millet.

ཅིག་ cig, enclitic, a modification of ycig, after s usually changed into ṡig, after vowels, and the liquids ṅ, n, m, r, l into ẓig (exceptions, however, in provincialisms and in literature are not unfrequent) 1. after nouns, the indefinite article a, or a few, when following after a plural; sometimes also untranslatable: bud-méd-dag cig some women; máṅ-po ẓig many (sometimes expressly opp. to máṅ-po, the many, Tar. 7, 15); gaṅ ẓig v. gaṅ; a little, some, ṡiṅ ẓig ˚ču-ru ˚gro dgos I must go and pick up some fire-wood Mil.; after infinitives: krims daṅ ˚gál-ba ẓig byéd-pa to commit a trespass, to make one's self guilty of a transgression Dzl.; tse ˚pǒs-pa gráṅs-med-pa ẓig myaṅ he suffered innumerable deaths Dzl.; it is even added to numerals, and not only when 'nearly', 'about' or similar words leave a given number undefined (mi lṅa tsam ẓig some five people), but also in sentences like the following: ču-mig bẓi ẓig yod there are four springs or fountains. In all these cases, however, it may also be omitted. The numeral for 'one' ought always to be written ycig and never cig, but prefixing the y is so often neglected (e. g. in ṫabs cig-tu, lhan cig etc.) that even grammarians let it pass. — 2. when affixed to verbs (to the root of the imp. mood, or, in negative sentences, to the root of the present tense) it is a sign of the imperative. In ancient literature it is used without reference to rank, whether it be in making prayers to Buddha, or in giving orders to a servant; at present in C. only in the latter way; in W. it is of rare occurrence.

ཇིང་, ཞིང་, ཞིང་ ciṅ, ṡiṅ, ẓiṅ, a gerundial particle, the initial letter of which is changed acc. to the rules obtaining for cig; it corresponds to the English participle in ing, is used in sentences beginning with when, after, as, and is affixed to verbal roots and adjectives, in the latter case including the auxiliary verb to be: ysón-por dúr-du bcúg-ciṅ bui ṣa zá-bar gyúr-čig (= bčúg-nas, or bčúg-ste) may I, after having been buried alive, be obliged to eat my own son's flesh! Dzl.; usually however employed in the minor clauses of accessory sentences: brós-šiṅ gáb-pas having hid themselves after running away Dzl.; frq. also where coordinate ideas are in English connected by and or but: šá-la zá-žuṅ krág-la ˚ťúṅ-ba eating flesh and drinking blood; čé-žiṅ légs-pa tall and well-shaped; drod ynód-čiṅ bsil-ba ṕan heat is hurtful (but), cold is beneficial Lt. It is also used like the ablative of the gerund in Latin: nya bšór-žiṅ ˚ťsó-o we live by fishing (piscando) Dzl.; and = kyiṅ (q.v.): rí-la draṅ-sroṅ byéd-čiṅ ˚dúg-go he sits on the mountain acting the part of an anchorite Dzl.; smre-snágs ˚dón-čiṅ ˚dug he sits wailing Dzl.; raṅ-dgár ˚gró-žiṅ ỳda he is wandering at pleasure Mil.; čes smrá-žiṅ yód-pa-la as they were thus speaking Glr.; čos stón-čiṅ yód-pai ťse as he was just giving religious instruction Tar. 11, 12.

Comp. čags-sdáṅ 1. Schr. love and hatred, 2. Glr., Pth. jealousy (love showing itself in hatred), also čags-sdáṅ-gi ṗrag-dog. — čags-spyód coition, copulation, cf. čágs-pa III., 2. — čags-žén, also žen-čágs = čágspa sbst. Mil.; čags-žén čó-če W., to love, c. la; čags-žén méd-pa dispassionate, indifferent to all terrestrial things. — čagsséms = čags-žén. — čágs-sred-čan Pth. lustful, libidinous, wanton.

Here the process of brewing may be mentioned. When the boiled barley (Ld. sbo-bód, Ts. ťab) has grown cold, some ṗabs (q.v.) is added, after which it is left standing for two or three days, until fermentation commences, when it is called glum. Having sufficiently fermented, some water is poured to it, and the beer is considered to be ready for use. If proper care is taken (and the people of Ü and Ladak generally do so), the pale beer, thus obtained, is not amiss, and sparkles a good deal, but not being hopped it does not keep long. The people of Lahoul are accustomed to press out the glum with their hands, instead of filtering it, and mismanage the business also in other respects, so that their čaṅ is a gray muddy liquor, that has hardly any resemblance to beer. The residue of malt, called sbáṅma, may be mixed with water or milk, pressed through a strainer, and used instead of barm in baking bread, cakes etc.

Comp. čáṅ-kaṅ beer-house, pot-house, tavern. — čáṅ-čan drinking-cup or bowl Sch, Wts. — čáṅ-čem-čan an intoxicated person. — čáṅ-čem-sa Lex. prob. = čáṅ-sa. — čáṅ-ˌtuṅ-mkan a beer-drinker; čáṅ-ˌtun-kan máṅ-po dzom a great beer-drinking bout takes place W. — čáṅ-dad-čan a drunkard, tippler W. — čáṅ-tsúgs = čaṅ-čan Sch. — čáṅ-ˌtsoṅ-gi kyim beer-house Dzl. — čáṅ-sa 1. beer-house 2. beer-carousal, čáṅ-sa čén-po byéd-pa to give or arrange a great beer-drinking bout Mil.

(rarely dp.) in the special sense: to honour saints or deities by offering articles of food, flowers, music, the sound, odour and flavour of which they are supposed to relish, hence to treat, entertain, regale (the gods), and in a more general sense applied also to lifeless objects, e.g. to honour a sepulchre in such a manner; Glr. mčód-pa may therefore in English be sometimes translated by: to offer, to sacrifice, but it should always be borne in mind, that no idea of self-denial or yielding up a precious good (as is implied by the English word), or of slaughtering, as in the Greek θύειν, can be connected with the Tibetan word itself, though in practice bloody sacrifices, abhorred as they are by pure Buddhism in theory, are not quite unheard of, not only animals being immolated to certain deities, but also men notoriously noxious to religion slaughtered as dmar-mčod, red offering, to the dgrá-lha q.v. — 2. C. resp. to eat, drink, take, taste, (in W. expressed by dón-če).

ད daṅ, postp. c. accus, with (Lat. cum), ṅa daṅ with me (often with the addition of bčás-pa, lhan-ycig, mnyám, q. v.), e.g. to go, speak, play, quarrel with; bud-méd daṅ nyál-ba to lie with a woman; in some cases it must be omitted in English, or rendered by other words, as: groṅ-kyér daṅ nyé-ba, ríṅ-ba near the town, far from the town; de daṅ ₒdrá-ba equal to that. Some particular ways of using daṅ are the following: 1. for and, yser daṅ dṅúl daṅ lčags-la-sógs-pa gold, and silver, and iron, and the other (metals). The shad is here always put after daṅ, which shows that in the mind of the Tibetan daṅ never ceases to be a postposition; it can therefore be used only for connecting nouns and pronouns. In enumerations it is employed in different ways, and often quite arbitrarily, e.g. after every single noun or pronoun except the last one, or also after the last; it is used or omitted just as the metre may require it; or when a sum is mentioned, in the following manner: byúṅ-ba bži ni: sa (daṅ) ču (daṅ) me (daṅ) rluṅ daṅ bžio the four elements: earth, and water, and fire, and air, four they are; or, esp. in col. language, thus: sa daṅ ycig, ču daṅ ynyis etc. — 2. distributively: žag daṅ žag, lo daṅ lo, day by day, every year; kyim daṅ kyim-na Tar. every one in his house. — 3. after a personal pronoun col. almost like a sign of the plural: ṅa daṅ ynyis-ka we two, both of us. ṅa daṅ ṫsán-ma all of us. — 4. after the inf., and in W. after the gerund in gin, nyí-ma ṡár-ba daṅ at sun-rise, as soon as the sun rises, when the sun rose; lo brgya lón-pa daṅ when a hundred years had (or shall have) passed away, after a hundred years; smrás-pa daṅ kyím-du soṅ with saying so, he went home, is gen. translated: he said so and went home, and so frq. in narration; *W.: *ṡúg-ḍa ṫon daṅ with a whistling, ṫóṅ-gin žig daṅ at beholding. — 5. after an imperative for and, sgo rduṅs ṡig daṅ de-dag ₒoṅ-ṅo knock at the door, and they will come Dzl.; yíd-la byos ṡig daṅ bṡád-do give heed, and I will explain it to you Stg.; or it is used in the following manner: légs-par sems ṡig daṅ ma nór-ram consider it well; have you not made a mistake there? nyon čig daṅ sṅón-dus-na listen to me!

Now, there was in olden times etc. Dzl. and elsewh., frq.; loṅ žig daṅ ṅá-la dbáṅ yod do take it! I have the power, you know, i.e. I shall answer for it Dzl.; in more recent times it is used (also when not followed by any other words) as an imperative particle = čig: 'da zo daṅ' byas-pas saying 'eat!' Glr.; 'da ltos daṅ' ysuṅs 'now just see', he said Mil.; even after žu, which in its application is like a verb in the imperative: 'ysúṅ-ba žu daṅ' žes zér-bas saying 'pray, teach (us)!' Mil. — 6. In W. daṅ is used improperly for the instrum.: bér-ka daṅ duṅ strike with the stick! and for by or through with respect to persons: yóg-po daṅ šab-šób zer he cheats me, tells me a lie, through his servant.

Its usual rendering, however, is 2. holy, sacred, blá-ma dám-pa, skyés-bu dám-pa, a holy Lama, a holy man, and most frq. dám-pai čos, dám-pa čos, dám-čos, the holy doctrine, the holy religion of Buddha. Yet, in the interpretation of passages the original meaning (noble, excellent) ought to be resorted to much oftener. So also yyóg-mo dám-pa čig Glr. signifies an excellent, a favourite female slave, but not exactly a holy or a faithful one.

As these various conditions are partly characteristics of 'humanity', and attainable only by human beings, they might be denominated 'the (eighteen) specific blessings of humanity'. Often they are also used directly for 'condition of humanity, or of human nature', this kind of existence being, from a religious point of view, the best and most desirable. rnyed-dkái dál-ba mi lus, and similar expressions frq. occur (Cs. has calmness, tranquillity of mind, evidently mistaking it for rnal-ˌbyor). dál-ba, dál-bu, dál-po, dál-mo, W. also dál-càn, quiet, calm, of the mind, the water; gentle, of the wind; slow, lazy; šē-gyú' dhál-wa*, or šé-pa dhál-wa C.* phlegmatic disposition. — Adv. dál-bar (v. above), dál-gyis, dál-bus, slowly, softly, gradually, e.g. to draw, opp. to drág-tu; dál-ˌgroi rgyun bžin like a stream flowing gently and softly; mi-dál-bar Dzl. incessantly.

Whether, when bdén-pa ynyis are mentioned, they refer to two of the just named realities, or whether they always denote absolute (objective) truth (don-dám-pai bdén-pa) and subjective truth (kun-rdzób-kyi bdén-pa) as mentioned by Was. (293), I am not prepared to decide, nor am I able to explain the meaning of lám-gyi bdén-pa and ₒgóg-pai bdén-pa (Thgy. frq.). bden-pa-nyid seems to be a technical term for truth, though the Buddhist understands by it nothing but stoṅ-pa-nyid. Nevertheless, the possibility of its being misapprehended from this reason ought to be no obstacle to the word being used in its original sense, and re-established in its proper right, the more so, as Buddhist philosophy makes but a mockery of truth, by identifying it with a negation of reality. — 2. = bden-tsig, v. below, Mil.

དུ་བྱེད་ ˚du-byéd, Ssk. संस्कार, (the Tibetan word is nothing but a literal translation of the Ssk. saṅskāra; cf. also ˚du-šés and p'uṅ-po) 'one of the obscurest and most difficult terms of Buddhist philosophy' Köpp. I, 603, where the various translations are enumerated that have been attempted, such as: idea, notion, imagination (cf. Burn. I, 503), action (Was.) etc. It should, however, at once be acknowledged, that the word cannot be translated into a European language, as the meaning given to it is not the result of honest research and observation, but a product of arbitrary and wild speculation.

དུ་འཛི་ ˚du-˚dzi noise, bustle, din, clamour, ˚du-˚dzi méd-pai dbén-pa ˚di this solitude without any noise Mil.; ˚du-˚dzí-la ɣnás-pa to live in the midst of the bustle of worldly affairs; ˚du-žíṅ, ˚du-lóṅ Cs. id.

དུ་ཤེས་ ˚du-šes, Ssk. संज्ञा ('con-scientia') corresponds in most cases to our idea, notion, conception, image, although sometimes perception, feeling, sense, thought, consciousness may be employed for it: nór-la rtág-tu yód-pai ˚du-šés skyéd-pa to combine with earthly goods the idea of constant possession S.O. and thus frq.; lús-la grui ˚du-šés ˚jug-pa to unite with the human body the idea of a ship, to represent the body as a ship, Thgy.; skyó-bai ˚du-šes byuṅ the perception, the feeling of discomfort arises S.g.; kró-bai ˚du-šés-spán-ba to detest the idea, the thought of anger Dzl.; dgé-bai ɣyógs-la ˚du-šés čuṅ-zad kyaṅ ma ɣyos no thoughts, no inclinations, tending to virtue, arose (in him), virtuous emotions never stirred in his mind; čágs-pai

The three terms ˚du-šes-čan, ˚du-šes-méd-pa, ˚du-šes-med-mín may be rendered: having the faculty of thinking, having no faculty of thinking, neither thinking nor not thinking (Dzl. ཀ, 7), ˚du-šes-čan refers to human beings, the two other terms relate to celestial beings (v. Köpp. I, 261, 17 and 26), that are evidently so much the more excellent and exalted, as they are far above all reasoning and thinking. According to another, and (it would seem) more natural interpretation, the first of these three terms implies rational beings (man), the second irrational beings (higher animals), and the third quite irrational creatures (lower animals, worms, reptiles, that are not even possessed of the sensitive powers of the higher animals), whilst the 'long-lived Lhas' of the 17th. heaven are classed together with the common Lhas (who however taken strictly, belong to the 'first world') and on account of their stupidity are believed to be incapable of ever being converted, Thgy.

དུག་པ་ ˚dúg-pa (eleg. ɣdá-ba, resp. bžúgs-pa) 1. to sit, syn. with sdód-pa; with na, la etc.; to sit down with termin. or la; to sit up (in bed); ˚dúg-par ˚gyúr to get seated Dzl. ཝ, 6; to remain sitting, to keep one's seat, Dzl. ཝ, 7; to remain, to stay, ˚dir ma ˚dúg-par soṅ žig Dzl.; to remain behind, to stay at home, with or without ṗyir, kyim-na etc. Dzl. — 2. to be, to exist, to live Glr.: . . . skabs-med ˚'dug-go! there is no chance of . . . II. postp., sign of the ablative case (almost like las) 1. added to sbst.: from, byáṅ-ṕyogs-nas from the north, often joined with bzúṅ-ste (*Ld. *táṅs-te), commencing from, extending from, with a following to, as far as; till, until, with respect so space and time; by, lág-pa-nas ˚dzin-pa or ˚ỳú-ba to take a person by the hand, míṅ-nas rỳód-pa, smó-ba to call by name, ṫigs-pa re-ré-nas (to count) by single drops, so-só-nas one by one, each by himself; through, dúṅ-nas bṣád-pas speaking through a trumpet Glr., sgo-sáṅ-nas ltá-ba looking through the chink of a door Tar.; sgó-nas ytóṅ-ba to admit through the door Dzl.; bi-yaṅ-ne ṕaṅ W. he flung it through the hole (cf. also rgyúd-pa I., 2); made, manufactured, built etc. of, pá-gu-nas of bricks; (made, worked, struck etc.) with, lág-pa-ne duṅ W. struck with the hand; denoting distance: rgyaṅ-grágs ỳčig-nas pó-ta-la yod C., Potala lies within reach of the ear; ˚di-nas gáṅs-ri-la far from here on the snowy mountain Glr.; with respect to time: after, ṣag bdún-nas after seven days: dé-nas after that, afterwards, then. — 2. added to verbs, as gerundial particle, rarely to the inf., gen. ནི་ ni I. 1. particle, col. also niṅ; Cs. justly remarks: 'an emphatical particle', serving to give force to that word or part of a sentence, which rhetorically is most important, esp. also (though not exclusively, Sch.) to separate the subject of a sentence from its predicate, thus adding to perspicuity: kyod ˚dir ˛óṅs-pa ni ṅaṅ mṫus ˛oṅs-so thy coming hither has been effected by my (magic) power Dzl.; bdag ni brám-ze yin myself am a Brahmin Dzl.; de ni ṅa yin that one am I; ˚di ni mi ṕód-do this I am not able to do Dzl.; ṫa-mál-pa ni ma yin a vulgar person she is not Dzl.; des ni it is by this (that...); stobs ni as to strength (I...); gál-te ˛nús-na ni if he can (— well!); da ni, ṡnar ni, ˚dí-las ni, ṡñon-càd ni etc.; ṡiṅ-mkʻan ni now, as to the carpenter, he . . . Dzl.; dár-ba ṅi now, with respect to the propagation (of the doctrine). In a similar manner it is frq. used, where we begin a new paragraph, heading it with its principal contents. In col. language the word before ni is rendered still more emphatic by repeating it once more after ni: zer ni zer dug W. (it is true) they say so; ḍi ni ḍi-te yod it has been written, (to be sure); ǰhe ni ǰhe C., ċo ni ċo dug W. (certainly) they are working at it, (but . . .). In metrical compositions, esp. in mnemonic verses, it is often added as a mere metrical expletive, without any meaning, esp. after daṅ. — 2. Ts.: demonstrative pron., ri ni-le ni to-wa dug this mountain is higher than that.

རྣམས་ rnams, in B. the usual sign of the plural, in col. language little used, esp. in W., meaning, acc. to its etymology, piece by piece; hence its use is not a strict grammatical rule, but more or less arbitrary; it is mostly omitted, when the plural is otherwise indicated, e. g. after definite and indefinite numerals; it may be used, however, not only in these instances (ˌ*Kor mán-po-rnams* many servants), but also after collective nouns (dge-ˌdún-rnams), at the end of enumerations (= de tams-čád), after general expressions, such as: gań yód(-pa)-rnams whatever they were, after other plural-signs (... dag-rnams etc.). སྤྲུལ་བ་ sprúl-ba (cf. ɔ́prúl-ba), to juggle, to make phantoms (sprúl-pa) appear, to change, to transform (one's self), which according to the doctrines of Buddhism is the highest acquisition of any man, that by his own holiness has assumed divine nature, viz. as long as he is capable of acting, not having yet been absorbed into the blessed state of nothingness. This power of transformation on the part of the Buddhist is the evidence of what he understands by divine omnipotence; but as this conception is a mere product of fancy, it varies in its import. On the one hand it is opposed to reality, dṅos; thus e.g. beings, whom no Buddha could convert through his personal agency, sku-dṅós-kyi sgó-nas, are converted (acc. to Pth.) sprúl-pai ťábs-kyis. Frequently Buddha avails himself of jugglery, rdzu-ɔ́prúl ston, converting thousands of beings in a trice, Dzl. & elsewh.; further: drág-poi sprúl-pa byás-pa yin Glr., I caused terrifying phantoms to appear, viz. the spectral bodies of executed culprits, in order to scare the rude Tibetans into the way of virtue. From the foregoing it is evident that the term in question by no means conveys the scriptural idea of a creative and miraculous power; the Tibetan, however, when he becomes acquainted with christianity, is always apt to substitute his sprúl-pa or rdzu-ɔ́prúl, and sprúl-ba for it. On the other hand, a real and material existence is as often attributed to a sprul-pa, when it designates the incarnate and embodied person, the Avatāra of a deity, (Mongol. Chubilgan), who like any human being is capable of acting, and exerting an influence on the material world around him, or of suffering by it, without any docetic admixture. Occasionally it is also to be translated by emanation: yáṅ-sprul, emanation of the second degree, i.e. one emanation going forth from another; nyíṅ-sprul or ɣsúm-sprul, an em. of the third degree Pth.; sprúl-pa ɔgyéd-pa, to let emanations go forth, Lexx. — Further: sprúl-pa mkyén-pa, to be an adept in the art of sprúl-pa, i. e. witchcraft, Glr.; ri ɣnyis sprúl-te producing two mountains by magic, Dzl.; ... mťó-ba ... bžúgs-pa sprúl-nas, changing himself into a high enthroned person, Dzl.; dge-

if actually done, and in legends, especially, it is generally followed by a happy realisation of what had been desired. — dmigs-so S.O. prob.: it is imaginable, it may be done in mind; don dmigs-pa to intend a benefit or profit for another person Mil. — Generally 2. sbst., thought, idea, fancy আলম্বন, vulgomig(s); dmigs-pai rten prob.: a thing only supposed, an object imagined Thgr.; dmigs-pa žig ston-pa, ˚bógs-pa to give (to another person) an idea of, to make a suggestion Mil.; mig-la čo gȳ W. means also: do it, execute it, according to your own mind, I cannot supply you an exact pattern of it; dmigs-čan ingenious, skilful in contriving W.; dmigs-pa-las ˚dás-pa = bsámbyai yúl-las ˚dás-pa? — yéṅs-med(-par) dmigs-pa (daṅ) brál-bas-na indisturbable by fancies of the mind, free from every working of the imagination Mil.; dmigs-pa-méd-pai snyiṅ-rje Mil. seems to be, acc. to Thgy., the pity which the accomplished saint, who has found every thing, even religion, to be vain and empty, feels towards all other beings, in as far as they are still subject to error and mistake, opp. to sémsčan-la dmigs-pai snyiṅ-rje, and čós-la dmigspai snyiṅ-rje the tender sympathies called forth by the sight of beings that are really suffering and of those defective in morality — a play upon empty phrases, in as much as in the very narrative, from which the passage above is quoted, the natural softness of Milaraspa is evidently excited by a very positive case, and not by any reflexions of an abstract nature. — mig-pa-ne žȳ-pa (v. bzó-ba) C. done only in thought, supposed, fictitious; dmigs tams-čád brjédnas forgetful of all the beautiful fancies, schemes, and airy notions; dmigs-pa ytódpa prob.: to direct one's thoughts, fancies, la to Tar. 189, 2. བཙོལ་བ btsól-ba v. ˚tsól-ba.

རྩ rtsa I. sbst., more col. rtsá-ba (*W. *sá-wa) or rtsá-bo S.g. 5, 1. vein, rtsa ycódpa to open a vein Dzl., sá-wa gyáb-cè* W.* id. Owing to the imperfect state of Indian and Tibetan anatomy, resulting from inveterate prejudices both of a religious and intellectual nature, great confusion prevails also in the department of angiology, many different vessels of the human body, and even part of the nerves being classed among the veins, so that it is impossible to find adequate terms for the Tibetan nomenclature. This applies e.g. to the division of the rtsa in čágs-pai, sriḍ-pai, ˚brél-pai, and ťséi or sróg-gi rtsa, which last term does not correspond to what we understand by artery (Cs.); so it is also with respect to the three principal veins, which by a mystic theory are stated to proceed from the heart, dbú-ma the middle one, white, rkyáṅ-ma the left one, red, and ró-ma the right one, white, concerning which cf. the articles ytúm-mo and ťig-le; rtsa-dkár, also rlúṅ-rtsa Med., are perh. in most cases the same as artery, acc. to the well-known supposition of the ancients, that the veins of dead men, appearing empty, contain air; par-rtsa id., as in the living body it pulsates; rtsa-nág or krág-rtsa, vein, blood-vessel; rtsa-sbúbs is mentioned Lt. 147, 10, as a surgical instrument. Some names are more or less clear: míg-rtsa seems to be the Venafac. ext., rtsa-čúṅ Vena jugul.ext., rtsa-čén or rtsa-bo-cé V. saphena magna, po-mťsan-ghi dbus-rtsa V. dorsalis penis. rgyú-grog-rtsa, on the other hand, are the ureters, ni f., which are represented as proceeding from the small intestine. — rtsa-rgyus Med. 1. Sch.: 'veins and sinews' (?); rtsa-rgyus-˚gag an obstruction of the veins S.g. 2. title of a book: Directions how to feel the pulse. — rtsa-čús, C. rtsa-˚dus cramp. — rtsa-mdúd an inturgescence of the veins. — rtsa-ynás Mil. seems to be a net of veins, vascular plexus, any connection of things that may be compared to it, as e.g. the causal connection of the 12 Nidanas (v. rten-˚brel sub rtén-pa comp.) — rtsa-spúṅ tissue of veins Sch. — 2. pulse, so in rtsa ltá-ba, or rtog-pa Med. to feel one's pulse, and mťson-, kan-, or čag-rtsa the feeling one's pulse with the second, third or fourth finger.

II. sbst, for rtsá-ba.

III. particle in conjunction with numerals: 1. gen. connecting the tens with the units, equivalent to and: nyi-šu-rtsa-ycig twenty and one; less frq. after brgya and stoṅ, where also daṅ-rtsa is not unusual, yet examples as the following: S.g., fol. 5, where the sum of 62, 33, 95 and 112 is stated to be = sum-brgya-rtsa-ynyis, and Pth. p. 34, twice lña-brgyá-rtsa ycig = stoṅ-daṅ-rtsa-ynyis, — exclude any doubt as to the proper use of the word. — 2. inst. of nyi-šu-rtsa-ycig to nyi-šu-rtsa-dgu, rtsa-ycig etc. is also used by itself, as an abbreviation, e.g. S.g. p. 3, in describing the growth of an embryo from week to week; this use of the word may account for the assumption, quite general in W. and C., that rtsa in itself is equivalent to 20, for even Lamas of both districts could be convinced only by an arithmetical proof, that the numbers mentioned in the above passages were 302 and 1002, and not 322 and 1022. — 3. In bčú-rtsa nyí-šu-rtsa, brgyá-rtsa, without any units following, e.g Tar. 120, 10, the word evidently stands but pleonastically, like ťam-pa.

རྩ་ rtswa (Bal., Pur. rtswa, stswa) C. tsa, Lh., Ld., sa, चिण, grass, herb, plant, rtsa-ǩai (or rtsa-rtsei) zil-pa the dew on the grass Glr.; rtsa nyag ɣčig a single blade of grass Cs.; sńó-yi rtsa, rtsa-sńón green grass; rtsa-skám, and often rtsa alone, hay, rtsa rná-ba to mow grass, ˛ťú-ba, to gather (grass); rtsá-ǩa C., W. pasture, pasturage, sá-ǩa gyál-la W. good pasturage. — rtsá-čan covered with grass, grassy. — rtsa-mčóg Kusha-grass Lex., v. ku-ša; rtsa-mčoy (-groń) town in West Assam, where Buddha died Glr.; Kamarūpa. — rtsa-ťág grass-rope Dzl. — rtsa-ťún grass-gatherer Sch. — rtsa-ydán grass-mat Sch. — rtsa-ɣyáb manger Sch. — rtsa-ras Sch. 'linen', prop. the same as la-ta q. v. — 2. euphemism for rkyag; tsa táń-wa C. to go to stool; rtsa ču bsdams Mil. he suffers from obstruction and strangury.

Gram.*, chronol. table; whether Sch.'s translation 'cause and effect' is altogether correct, may admit of some doubt, yet v. below; rtsá-ba dań ˛grél-ba Cs. 'text and commentary'; in rtsá-bai ma Thgy. the genitive case stands prob. for the apposition: the mother that is the root of me, in a similar manner as rtsá-bai rań-bžin nature Cs.; rtsá-bai blá-ma seems to denote the teaching priest, the one by whom in any particular case the instruction is given, opp. to brgyúd-pa, he to whom it is imparted. A good deal of confusion however prevails here, owing to the ambiguity of the verbal form in brgyúd-pa and the variable spelling;

v. rgyúd-pa extr. — rtsa-ťór Sch.: 'lower end and top' (?) (should perh. be rtsa-ťog); rtsa-mi Tar. 191, 3 is rendered by Schf. with 'Haupt-Mann', principal man. — rtsa-lág (Schr.: root and branches) Lex. बन्धु relations, kindred; rtsa-lag-čan having relations, rtsa-lag-med without relations Cs. — rtsa-šés Sch.: primitive wisdom. — 4. symb. num.: 9. — II. v. rtsa vein.

Note. rtsa, vein, is traced by Tibetan scholars back to rtsá-ba, the veins being the 'roots of life'; in a dictionary the words are better treated separately.

I. pf. tsaṅs, fut. btsaṅ(?) 1. to press into, to stuff Sch., ˌtsáṅ-ka byéd-pa id. Sch.; náṅ-du ˌtsáṅs-pa Lexx. prob. pressed into, stuffed inside, so Sch.: kri naṅ tsáṅs-čan a stuffed seat; dbugs kar ˌtsáṅs-pa out of breath, panting (in the heat of pursuit) Mil.; dbugs stod-du ˌtsaṅs-nas skad mi ton Mil. I am pressed for breath, my breath stops, I cannot utter a word (for ardent longing); stod-ˌtsáṅs, rluṅ-ˌtsáṅs, ˌtsáṅs-la ɟan, all these expressions imply a want of breath, not sufficiently to be reconciled to the original meaning of the word. — 2. sú-la tsáṅs-se yóṅ-če* Ld.* to attack a person with open violence, opp. to a stealthy attack. — II. pf. saṅs, which verb, however, occurs only in ˌtsaṅ-rgyá-bar ˌgyúr-ba to become Buddha Dzl. frq., ˌtsaṅ rgyá-bar ˌdód-pa to aim at Buddhaship, and saṅs-rgyás (having become) Buddha. Besides this form, there exists also a verb sáṅ-ba, pf. (b)saṅs, to clean, as may easily be proved by examples. The whole will perh. become clear, if we presume, that the form ˌtsaṅ-ba for the present tense is now obsolete, occurring only in reference to Buddha, as quoted above, and that the root saṅ is now used as present tense in the following significations: 1. to remove (impurities) — like ˌdág-pa — to make clean, daṅ sáṅ-te med W. (the soot) having yesterday been removed, there is none just now; saṅ dug, saṅ ċos W. it is cleansed, swept clean, ˌbag saṅ, nyé-pa saṅ the contamination, the sin, has been removed, done away with C.; snyun saṅs the disease is removed Pth.; skyo-sáṅs byéd-pa to remove melancholy, to recreate or amuse one's self; to comfort others; skyo-sáṅs-la ˌgróba, skyo-sáṅs byéd-pa to take a walk, to take a ride Pth., C.; mya-ṅáṅ sáṅ-ba to comfort Pth., to console one's self; esp. 2. to recover, to come again to one's senses, ra-ro-ba-las from intoxication Dzl.; yzim-palas from a deep sleep Dzl.; also construed as before: bzi Glr., ra W. from a drunken fit, and this agrees with a sufficiently authenticated signification of the Ssk. root budh, so that saṅs-rgyás would after all be the literal translation of बुद्ध (contrary to Burn. I, 71 med.), taking the signification of the name, accord. to Tibetan notions, to be: 'the man that has entirely recovered from error and come to the knowledge of absolute truth'. That saṅs-rgyás be the same as perfect, holy, seems to be a mere etymological conjecture of Cs. — 3. to take away, to take off, ċeb sáṅ-wa C. to uncover. — 4. to be spoiled, to become unfit, useless, wó-ma saṅ soṅ C. the milk is spoiled, zom saṅ ˌdug = ṡaṅ ˌdug the casks are leaky, are running out.

A good deal of obscurity attaches, further, to the frequent mention of the žì-rgyas-dbaṅ-drag, as the characteristic properties of the four parts of the world (v. glin), and likewise as qualities and functions of the Buddhas, gods and saints, viz. allaying diseases, conferring happiness and wealth, ruling over all creatures and subduing all that is unruly and hostile; to which are to be added four kinds of burnt-offerings, in the same fourfold sense, v. Schl. 250. Finally, in mysticism the term žì-ba acts a prominent part: žì(-bar) gnás(-pa) and lhag(-par) mťoṅ(-ba), शमथ and विपश्यन, shortened žì-lhág, implies an absolute inexcitability of mind, and a deadening of it against any impressions from without, combined with an absorption in the idea of Buddha, or which in the end amounts to the same thing, in the idea of emptiness and nothingness. This is the aim to which the contemplating Buddhist aspires, when, placing an image of Buddha, as rten, (v. rten 1) before him, he looks at it immovably, until every other thought is lost, and no sensual impressions from the outer world any longer reach or affect his mind. By continued practice he acquires the ability of putting himself, also without rten, merely by his own effort, into this state of perfect apathy, and of attaining afterwards even to dṅos-grub, the supernatural powers of a saint. The stories that are related of such achievements, and with which the work of Taranātha abounds, are, notwithstanding their absurdity, readily believed by every faithful Buddhist. That there are also cases of failures, cf. smyón-pa.

ཞུ་བ་ žú-ba I. vb., pf. žus (esp. in later writings and vulgo, in ancient literature gen. ysól-bar for it) signifies 1. every kind of speaking to a person of higher rank, therefore to request, to prefer a suit or petition, to make a report, to put a question etc., žú-žiṅ ysól-ba-la ˚gró-bai ṭse when I have to bring in a petition Dzl.; 'mnál-lam de yžán-la mi ysúṅ-bar žu' žús-so 'pray, do not relate the dream to others', he begged Glr.; ynáṅ-bar žu byás-pas saying, 'I beg you will permit', Glr.; sṅar mṫóṅ-bai dṅós-po dé-dag žuo I will ask him about the things lately seen, I shall request an explanation of him Dzl.; ná-la gáṅ-dag žú-ba de légs-so it is very right of you, thus to ask me about every thing Do.; rgyál-poi drúṅ-du rmí-lam žús-pa he related the dream before the king Pth.; ston-pa žu (pa col. for par) I request (you) to explain Mil.; der ˚byóṅ-pa žu 'thither to come I request' Mil.; dé-la mkáṅ-po žus they besought him to be their abbot Glr.; ynáṅ-ba žú-ba to ask permission Cs. — 2. In W. this žu has become a word of civility to the widest extent, as it is not only added to almost every sentence of a speech or a letter, something like our 'with your permission' or 'if you please', e.g. žan čí méd-na ṅa ḍo yin žu if you have nothing further (to say), I shall go, with your permission; ko leb soṅ žu he is arrived, if you please; but it also supplies every kind of salutation in coming or going, hence žu zér-če, resp. žu žú-če, to make or give one's compliments, ă-pa-ne žu máṅ-po žu dug my father's best respects (cf. ṗyag). Inst. of žu, ju is also frq. heard (vulgo), e.g. ju sab ju! good day, Sir, good day! which prob. is only an intensation of sound, and not to be referred to the Indian जी. — čí-la žu W. why, well then, mind! čí-la žu, nyi-ráṅ ṅe tsar ma kyód-pa yun-riṅ kyod well, I have not seen you this age! — The word is also used as a sbst., for request, wish, question, žú-wa ˚búl-ba C., púl-če W., ytóṅ-ba Glr. to make a request, to put a question; ydan-˚drén-pai žú-ba nán-čan púl-bas Mil. assailing him with pressing invitations.

Comp. lo-skor (Cs. also lo-ľor) cycle of years, a period of twelve years; it is the usual manner of determining the exact time of an event, which also tolerably well suffices for the short space of a man's life. If for instance a person in a dog-year (e. g. 1874) says that he is a byi-lo-pa, it may be guessed by his appearance, whether he is 10 or 22, 34, 46 etc. years old, and thus also in other cases accidental circumstances must help to determine the precise date of an event. Occasionally, however, the cycles are counted, e.g. lo-skór brgyad 96 years Glr. Besides this cycle of 12 years there exists another of 60 years which is formed (in imitation of Chinese chronology) by combining those 12 names of animals with the names of the (so called) five elements, šiň wood, me fire, sa earth, lčags iron, ču water. Each of these elements is named twice, followed, the first time by po, and the second by mo; which signs of gender may also be omitted without altering any thing in the matter. Thus šiň(-po)-ľyi-lo, šiň(-mo)-ṗag-lo, me(-po)-byi-lo, me(-mo)-glaň-lo are our years 1834, 35, 36, 37, and 1894, 95, 96, 97 etc. — lo-ľrims (v. lo-tóg-gi ľrims) ceremonies, at the beginning of harvest. — lo-gráňs prop. date (of the year), Sch. also: lo-gráňs tsáň-ma being of (full) age. — lo-mgó Cs. the beginning of a year, new-year's day. — lo-rgyús v. rgyus. — lo-ňán a bad year, a poor harvest. — lo-čág Cs. 'every second year'. — lo-čúň or nyúň C. young, lo-nyuň-nyúň very young. — lo-nyés = lo-ňán. — lo-snyíň Sch. 'year, period or stage of life' (?). — lo-tóg or -tóg the produce of the year, harvest, crop, lo-tóg rňá-ba to reap it, to gather it in. — lo-tó almanac. — lo-ོdod Mil. earthly-minded, sinner? — lo-dpyá annual tribute. — lo-ṗúň = srus-ṗúd, C. — lo-ṗyág (Ld. lob-čag) embassy sent every year to the king to renew the oath of allegiance. — lo-ṗyéd half a year. — lo-tsán annual produce, harvest, lo-tsan čé-ba a rich, abundant harvest Glr. — lo-légs v. légs-pa. — lo-bšád = lo-tó Cs. — lo-ysél Sch. a stack, a heap of corn (?).

སངས་རྒྱས་ saṅs-rgyás the Tibetan equivalent for बुद्ध; as to the etymology of the word v. sub ˌ*tsáṅ-ba.* The first historical Buddha is Saṅs-rgyas šā-kya ṭúb-pa, whose family name is Gaú-ta-ma and his personal name Don-grúb, सिद्धार्त, which, however, is not much used. In course of time several imaginary predecessors were given to him: ˌ*Od-srúṅ*, Gser-ṭúb and ˌ*Kor-ba-ˌjíg*, as having existed and reigned in former periods of the world. A successor also, Byáms-pa, was assigned to him, of whom it is supposed that he will reign at the period following this present one. According to others, however, Śākyaṭubpa was already the seventh Buddha that appeared on earth, the four above-named having been preceded by Tams-čad-skyób, Gtsug-tor-čan and Rnam-par-ɣzigs, this last one being the first of them all. These seven Buddhas then are comprised under the name of Saṅs-rgyas-rabs-bdún. — But the fertile imagination of devote Buddhists has further increased the number of future Buddhas to not less than one thousand (?), appropriate names for each of them have been invented, and Prof. Schmidt has thought it worth his while, to have these thousand names reprinted in a special pamphlet. Mysticism, however, generally knows only of the five first-named Buddhas (Gautama, his three predecessors and his first successor) and to each of these five 'human' Buddhas a celestial Buddha corresponds, called 'Dhyani Buddha' or the Buddha of contemplation, whilst to every Dhyani Buddha again his Dhyani Bodhisattwa is associated. In later times there is even mentioned a supreme or highest god, Adi-Buddha, ṭóg-mai Saṅs-rgyás, which doctrine, however, seems not to have been generally accepted. — Cf. Köpp. II, 15—29.

ལྷ་ lha, Ssk. देव, 1. the first class of beings subject to metempsychosis, the gods, both those of Brahminical mythology, and the various national and local gods, with whom Buddhism came in contact. These local gods were incorporated into the system of Buddhism, when they were found to be too numerous and too much endeared to the people, to be entirely discarded and given up; so, most of them are worshipped even nowadays and presented with various offerings. They are also supposed to enjoy a blissful existence (hence: dé-riṅ lhá-yi nyi-ma šar 'this day was a day of happiness to me' Glr., and similar expressions are of frq. occurrence; v. also lha-yul) and to be possessed of qualities and capacities superior to those of ordinary human beings. Nevertheless, when compared with any Buddhist saint, they are considered to be of inferior rank and power; and a local 'lha' can never attain to Buddhaship, without having previously assumed the nature of man; v. Köpp. I, 122. 248. ཨ

ཨ a, 1. the consonant which is formed in the lowest and hindmost part of the organs of speech, being produced by the opening of the glottis, like the Greek spiritus lenis, the Hebrew Aleph and the Arabian Elif. (In our modern languages the opening of the glottis is not regarded as a consonant, nor expressed by a particular letter or sign.). Combined with the Tibetan vowel-signs, ཨ, ཨི, ཨུ, ཨེ, ཨོ, it is pronounced 'a, 'i, 'u, 'e, 'o (cf. ཨ). It is also called skye-ba-méd-pai yi-ge, probably because all speaking depends on and is rendered possible only by a previous opening of the glottis; hence this letter is a symbol of the deity, of the čós-sku that was before every thing else. Spyan-ras-zig, therefore, addresses a celestial Buddha with 'a: 'a skye-méd rnam-dág čós-kyi dbyiṅs. — 2. num.: 30.

ཨོཾ་ ōm, Ssk. ओम्, mystical interjection, in later Hindooism the symbol of the Hindoo triad, in as much as it consists of the three sounds, a (Vishnu), u (Shiva), and m (Brahma). This interjection frequently occurs in the prayers of the northern Buddhists of Tibet, and especially in the famous 'six-syllable prayer', ཨོཾ་མ་ཎི་པད་མེ་ཧཱུྃ་, ōm maṇi pad-me hūm, the literal version of which is: 'O thou jewel in the lotus, hūm!' The person addressed in these words is not Buddha, but Spyan-ras-gzigs (v. spyan); by some he is thought to be the author of them. Concerning the import of this short apostrophy the best information is to be found Köpp. II, 59—61. — The Tibetans themselves are ignorant of the proper sense of these six syllables, if sense at all there be in them, and it is not unlikely that some shrewd priest invented this form of prayer, in order to furnish the common people with a formula or symbol, easily to be retained by the memory, and the frequent recital of which might satisfy their religious wants. And though there may be no obvious meaning in such exclamations or prayers, yet their efficacy is sure to be firmly believed in by a people, whose practical religion chiefly consists in the performance of certain rites and ceremonies, in a devout veneration of their Lamas, combined with frequent oblations to them, in abstaining from gross sins (regarding even the killing of live animals as such), and in the Pradakshina (v. skor-ba 2). — The numerous attempts that have been made to explain the Ommanipadmehūm satisfactorily, and to discover a deeper sense or even a hidden wisdom in it, have proved more or less unsuccessful. The most simple and popular, but also the flattest of these explanations is derived from the purely extrinsic circumstance, that the Sanskrit words of the prayer consist of six syllables, and accordingly it is suggested, that each of these syllables, when pronounced by a pious Buddhist, conveys a blessing upon one of the 'six classes of beings'. — The conjecture with which Köpp. closes his disquisition, is certainly nothing but a smart thought of that learned author.

ཨོཾ་ཨཿཧཱུྃ་ 'õ-'a-hūm, another mystical formula, used e. g. for transforming the mi-γtsáṅ-ba bcu into bdud-rtsi, v. the explanation given under naṅ-mčód.

Final remark. The Tibetan words, given in the Vocabulary, are not in every instance to be regarded as exact equivalents for whatever word happens to be sought, but rather as hints, how to attain to the wished for expression. It will, therefore, be frequently indispensable to refer to the Tib. Engl. Dictionary for further explanation, and to examine the different bearings and relations of the word in question, so far as they may have been traced there. — Although this Vocabulary is by no means complete in itself, yet it is to be hoped that it will not prove quite unuseful, but answer the purpose for which it was intended.

CORRECTIONS.

A revision of the Dictionary has brought such a number of misprints to light that, on second thoughts, it seems absolutely necessary not to leave them unnoticed, but to register all that are of any consequence. The unfortunate fact, that such corrections should be required, has to be ascribed to two circumstances, in regard to which the reader's indulgence has already been appealed to in the Preface, namely, the author's weak state of health, and the difficulties with which the printing of a book of this character is necessarily attended. —

In several of the longer articles some confusion in the use of the figures in large and small type has occurred. In order to restrict this catalogue within the smallest possible limits, these and other slight inaccuracies have not been entered.
